Tax Break Bill Opposed For Homes For Elderly

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. Ron Cope of Kearney Thursday suggested the possibility of extending a form of homestead tax exemption to elderly persons living on a limited income in homes for the aged.

Cope's proposal was offered as a suggested alternative to a bill proposing a constitutional amendment authorizing tax exemptions for all non-profit homes for the aged.

The bill, LB663, sponsored by Sen. Warren Swigart of Omaha, was held by the Legislature's Constitutional Revision and Recreation Committee for further study following a public hearing.

Currently, non-profit property owned by homes for the aged is eligible for tax exemption if it is used exclusively for educational, religious or charitable purposes.

Said Too Broad

Cope's alternative suggestion was prompted by committee concerns that LB663 would be too broad in providing tax exemptions benefiting people who may not need them.

It was Sen. Orval Keyes of Springfield who first mentioned the homestead tax exemption program, noting that its benefits are limited to elderly persons living on limited incomes.

Legislature

Under the terms of LB663, he said, twenty wealthy elderly persons might "build a Taj Mahal" to live in without a property tax burden.

"I'll be 65 in two years," Keyes said. "Should I be able to leave my house and move into a home for the aged to escape property taxes?"

'Not For Rich'

Swigart said his bill is designed to assist elderly persons who need assistance, "not the rich."

Homes operated for profit should still be taxed, he said.

But in some non-profit homes, residents are feeling the pinch of increased taxes through a hike in their monthly payments, he said.

Lancaster County Assessor Fritz Meyer told the committee that the bill could cost the county some $300,000 in annual property taxes.

If the Legislature provided for state reimbursement of those losses — as it reimburses local government for homestead tax exemptions — he would not oppose the proposal, he said.

But, Meyer said, he does oppose erosion of the local property tax base.

The proposal is too broad, Seward County Assessor Leslie Nelson said. "You could run a freight train through it," he declared.

Sauer Supports Bill

Floyd Sauer, administrator of Eastmont Towers in Lincoln, supported the bill. Only the nursing wing, the chapel and meeting rooms in his facility are tax-exempt now, he said.

Increased property taxes on the living units are pushing up the monthly fees paid by residents, he said, and "some people are on the border line of not being able to meet the increase in payments."

Also held for later action was LB662, another Swigart bill proposing a constitutional amendment to reimburse senators for their actual travel expenses in attending sessions of the Unicameral.

Senators are now reimbursed for only one round trip home.

There was no opposition testimony.

At 9:31 a.m. the tally was: 66 nonlookers, six long lookers, three glancers, one doubletaker and one taker.

The counting started about a half-hour earlier when I spied the bag of marijuana lying on the sidewalk in front of the County-City Building.

That is the place where the Sheriff's Office, the Police Department, Municipal Court, County Court and District Court are housed. In fact, that very morning two people were being charged inside with possession of marijuana.

When I saw that clear plastic bag of crumbled leaves, stems and seeds lying there on the sidewalk I started laughing because I saw the opportunity to watch people confronted with an unusual situation.

Looked Like Evidence

I was pretty sure it was marijuana in the bag because in my capacity as a police reporter I've seen many similar bags brought into the police station as evidence in marijuana cases. This one looked exactly the same.

One thing worried me. Thirty steps away at the curb was a black and white cruiser. A police officer was outside writing a ticket.

If it was marijuana I couldn't understand why the officer hadn't spotted it, because any defense attorney will tell you that when an officer gets into court and has to establish probable cause it seems he can smell marijuana smoke a half-mile away in 40-mile-per-hour gusts of wind and see a marijuana seed at 100 yards.

So I went inside and got a guy I know who admits to having smoked a marijuana cigarette or two in his misspent youth.

Expert Agrees

When he saw the bag he started laughing. "That's marijuana. I can assure you of that," he said. "Wonder what it's doing here?"

We went back inside the entryway of the building and started watching through the glass. "Must be almost an ounce in there," my expert said softly as he stared outside.

I telephoned a photographer to make a pictorial record for the public and posterity.

Mainly people just walked right by the bag without seeing it. It didn't matter whether they looked like mainstream middle class types carrying briefcases or standard rebels in denim and frowzy hair, they still missed the marijuana.

After we watched for about 15 minutes we started wondering if we had wandered into some sociological experiment, and whether at some unseen lookout students were watching us and taking notes. We couldn't find any.

Quick Glances

Three people just glanced at the bag briefly as if its presence there were as normal as a cigarette butt.

Six people gave the bag long, lingering looks, as if they might be wondering what it was, or even contemplating a course of action.

But no one touched the bag until 9:31 a.m. Then a young man who had been standing on the other side of the entryway apparently waiting for a bus, made his move.

He pushed open the door and walked down the stone steps. When he reached the marijuana he stopped in mid-stride, held motionless for a second, stooped gracefully, with a fluid motion snatched the bag with one hand, whipped it into his pocket and kept walking.

As he crossed the street toward the waiting maribus he looked back with a slight grin.

IN A HURRY . . . bag unseen.

JUST A LOOK . . . but no taker.

San Francisco — Sara Jane Moore, who attempted to assassinate President Ford, was sentenced to life in prison Thursday by a judge who said she was a product of a permissive society and never would have pulled the trigger if she could have been sentenced to death.

U.S. District Judge Samuel Conti, in passing the maximum sentence upon the 45-year-old former FBI informant, said:

"If you thought at the moment that you were going to press that trigger and fire that shot that you would be subjected to capital punishment, you wouldn't be pulling this trigger."

"Why is it that we went for almost two decades without kidnappings in this country? For one single reason: If people do it, then they got the gallows, they got shot, or they got the gas chamber."

Miss Moore, who fired at the President and missed last Sept. 22, heard the sentence with no show of emotion. She was wearing her usual court attire of beige blouse, navy blue vest and red, white and blue pinstriped pants.

She will be eligible for parole in 15 years. The U.S. Bureau of Prisons will decide within the next few days where she will serve her sentence.

Before the sentence she told the judge she felt no remorse and added that she still considers assassination a "valid political tool."

After making her statement in a firm voice without hesitation, the matronly woman listened intently as the judge said:

"The thing that concerns me listening to Miss Moore's statement . . . is how calloused we have become to crime and to violence, and we have accepted it as an ingredient of our daily life. And we are tolerating it."

The judge said there is a big segment of society "that does not care about their mothers; they don't care about their fathers; they don't even care about going to jail."

"There's only one thing they care about, and that is their skin," he said.

Miss Moore said that while she was working as an informant the FBI directed her into the radical world. She said she started out looking for kidnap-fugitive Patricia Hearst and became a staunch supporter of socialism who "finally understood and joined those who have only destruction and violence for a means of making change — and came to understand that violence can sometimes be constructive."

Miss Moore pleaded guilty Dec. 16 to firing a shot at President Ford from across the street as he walked out of the St. Francis Hotel after giving a speech. The shot missed him by five feet, and Miss Moore was immediately taken into custody. It was the first shot fired at a President since John F. Kennedy was killed in Dallas 12 years ago.

Her sentence was the second life prison term handed down within a month to women in California who had tried to assassinate Ford. Last month Lynette Fromme, a follower of mass murderer Charles Manson, received the same sentence for pointing a gun at the President in Sacramento, Calif., on Sept. 5.

Miss Moore said she was asked by probation officers whether she felt sorry for trying to kill Ford, and she replied, "yes and no."

"No, because it accomplished little except to throw away the rest of my life," she said. "It seemed a correct expression of my anger and it might have triggered the kind of chaos that results in change."

During her period as an informant for the FBI, "whose tool I was," she said, agents told her that her infiltration of Bay area radical groups was part of "a war."

Pro-West Men Flee Marxists

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has informed its European allies that resistance to Marxist forces in northern Angola has "all but collapsed" and that pro-Western troops are fleeing to the Zaire border, sources said Thursday.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told diplomats from 37 African countries late Thursday that he hopes the civil war in the former Portuguese colony can be settled through negotiation within a month.

The grim report of the situation along the northern front was cabled by Kissinger to the North Atlantic Council in Brussels Wednesday night. Sources told The Associated Press that he informed the allies that the Marxist faction, heavily supported by Cuban troops, was advancing rapidly in a drive toward the border with Zaire.

In eastern Angola, Kissinger related, a second pro-Western faction, backed by South African soldiers, had failed to secure a key railroad facility and "virtually all" fighting men of the National Front for the Liberation of Angola and their Zairian allies were fleeing the battlefield.

Kissinger, in the meeting with African envoys at the State Department, said he planned to take up the possibility of a negotiated settlement in Moscow next week when he sees Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev about prospects for a new nuclear weapons treaty.

Ervin Against Gag Orders: 'Sunlight Best Disinfectant'

By LIANE GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Samuel J. Ervin, noted senator, preacher and judge, said Thursday in Lincoln he opposes gag orders in court on the theory "sunlight is the best disinfectant."

"The public has a right to know what's going on in courts, of all places," Ervin said.

Using slightly archaic but colorful language, the grandfatherly ex-senator from North Carolina conveyed his love of the law and the U.S. Constitution.

His leadership of the Senate Select Committee on Presidential Campaign Practices, later known as the "Ervin Committee," is now a part of history.

But during his address at the Nebraska Union to an overflow crowd estimated at more than 1,000 people, Ervin said all Americans should be very proud of their system of government. It works.

'Eternal Vigilance'

He also warned that "eternal vigilance is the price of freedom . . . It's a strange thing, but some people don't like these freedoms," he said.

Though characteristically solemn and thought-provoking, Ervin's speech was spiced with stories like only he can tell. They'll lose some of the color in print.

He revealed how he became known as a public speaker. It seems Cousin Sue Tate, perennial chairperson of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, called him in the eleventh hour to give an address on Jefferson Davis.

Ervin said he tried to decline the invitation politely, but Cousin Sue persisted, saying, "any good Southerner ought to be able to make a speech on Jefferson Davis without even thinking about it."

Besides, she continued, "I've heard you speak and I know you speak without thinking."

'Fictional Publication'

Ervin, retired since January of 1975 after 20 years as senator, said he has been doing "what I wanted to do."

"I quit having to read that great fictional publication called the Congressional Record I've been doing a good deal of talking and a little writing."

His Lincoln appearance, sponsored by the Talks and Topics

Committee of the Union Program Council, is part of a four-day mini-tour of the country.

Asked his opinion on Senate Bill 1, currently pending on Capitol Hill, Ervin said he thinks it is a "bad piece of legislation."

"I served on the National Crime Commission that made initial recommendations," he said, "some of which I didn't agree with."

But the U.S. Justice Department "wanted a far more drastic bill so it had another one introduced."

Senate Bill 1 combines "the worst features of the two bills," he said, noting two provisions he is "violently opposed to."

One provision states that if a member of the executive branch marks any paper confidential, anybody who releases it and any newspaper that publishes it is guilty of a crime, he said.

Ignorance Defense

Another section says that if a federal official claims he didn't know something was wrong when he did it, he can use that as a defense in court.

On other matters, the prominent politician said:

—He "would have let New York City stew in its own juices awhile" instead of bailing it out of its money problems.

Peron Cuts Officials, Seeks Breathing Room

An official announcement said she accepted the resignation of Interior Minister Angel F. Robledo, 59, considered a key moderating force who counseled open dialogue with non-Peronist leaders.

She also dropped Foreign Minister Manuel Arauz Castex, Justice Minister Ernesto Corvalan Nanciaras and Defense Minister Tomas Vottero.

The shuffle brought to 55 the number of top-level replacements since the Peronists returned to power in May 1973. Robledo was named in September, the fifth interior minister since Mrs. Peron became president after the July 1974 death of her husband, Juan D. Peron.

Some conservative Peronists accused Robledo several months ago of pushing a campaign to persuade Mrs. Peron to resign or take an extended leave. He has argued since then against proposals such as a federal takeover of Buenos Aires Province. The province's governor, maverick Peronist Victorio Calabro, has challenged Mrs. Peron.

Robledo was replaced by a veteran Peronist economist, Roberto Ares, president of the state-run Bank of the Argentine Nation.

Jose Deheza, a hard-line nationalist lawyer from Cordoba, was made justice minister and temporarily defense minister. Deheza had recommended as a federal prosecutor that Mrs. Peron be cleared in a scandal over a $700,000 check drawn on a charity fund and deposited in her account. The case was dropped recently as he had proposed.

Education Minister Pedro Arrighi was confirmed in his post and named acting foreign minister. Other ministers staying on were Antonio Cafiero of economy, Anibal Demarco of social welfare, and Carlos Buckauf of labor.

Most analysts agreed the changes gave Mrs. Peron more breathing room, but added that if the new cabinet did not at least appear to be governing decisively, the 44-year-old president could again be under heavy pressure to resign.

Military and opposition leaders have been pressing Mrs. Peron for more decisive action on Argentina's economic crisis and political violence.

Official sources said Thursday that presidential elections now scheduled Oct. 17 could be delayed for up to two months because of problems in preparing ballots and voting procedures.

The elections at first were set for March 1977, but Mrs. Peron moved them up in an apparent attempt to relieve heavy pressure on her to step aside in favor of a constitutional caretaker president.

Early Thursday police found three bullet-riddled bodies in separate areas of Buenos Aires Province, all apparent victims of the political violence which has already killed at least 30 persons this year. At least 900 were killed during 1975.

And disagreement over January wage increases threatened to break an uneasy peace between workers and the government.

Code Leaves Pleasure In Sex

Vatican City (UPI) — The Roman Catholic Church said Thursday its new candid code of sexual ethics will not take the pleasure out of sex although the document condemned premarital sex, masturbation and homosexuality.

"The church has nothing against pleasure," The Rev. Roberto Tucci said Thursday at a news conference called to explain the Vatican's 20-page "Declaration on Certain Questions Concerning Sexual Ethics."

Tucci, director general of Vatican radio, said the church "is fully in favor of sexual pleasure so long as it is exercised in a legitimate way in marriage."

The document condemned modern society's "unbridled gratification of sex" and said some present-day theologians erred in saying there could be no mortal sin in sex.

Tucci said the document reaffirmed traditional Catholic dogma condemning sexual activity outside marriage, particularly trial marriages, homosexual relations and masturbation.

He said the document was new in taking into account "certain scientific data" that said masturbation may be a result of psychological immaturity and some homosexuals are suffering "a pathological constitution judged to be incurable."

The document said homosexuality "can in no case be approved," but urged understanding for homosexuals. It said masturbation is a "seriously disordered act," but dropped the church's traditional "self-abuse" wording.

The document said the guilt of such persons "will be judged with prudence." It quoted from the Old Testament, "Man looks at the appearance, but God looks at the heart."

Catholic sources said church liberals and conservatives were likely to try to stretch the document in opposite directions.

"Conservatives certainly will stress the upholding of existing church law and liberals are likely to emphasize leniency in individual cases," an Italian priest said.

The text was written over eight years by the Sacred Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith, the Vatican's watchdog body on church doctrine once known as the Inquisition.

Tucci said Pope Paul VI ordered and closely scrutinized the document.

"Knowing Paul VI, I can say he would not have ratified anything without checking it line by line, and not only once," Tucci said.

Psychiatrist Believes Patty Didn't Plan Own Kidnaping

San Francisco (UPI) — With a faint Patricia Hearst looking on, a government psychiatrist testified in court Thursday he believed she was innocent of plotting her own kidnaping by the radical Symbionese Liberation Army.

"She had no more to do with getting herself kidnaped than you and I," the prosecution-appointed psychiatrist, Dr. Harry Kozol, said at a special hearing on whether he should be permitted to continue his examination of the newspaper heiress who is charged with bank robbery.

In her first appearance on the witness stand Miss Hearst said Wednesday she broke down and cried while being interviewed by Kozol.

Kozol, a nattily-dressed, gray-haired Boston psychiatrist, defended himself against complaints by Miss Hearst's attorneys, F. Lee Bailey and Albert Johnson.

After Kozol completed his testimony U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter took under submission a government request that she be ordered to cooperate with Kozol.

Ford Motors Rolls Back To Remain In Competition

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. said Thursday it is rolling back immediately $97 of an $113 average price hike it pushed through on its 1976 cars this month. The company said it was taking the action "to keep Ford products competitive in the marketplace."

Ford, the only U.S. auto company to raise car prices across the board since the start of the 1976-model year, said the entire $97 average boost in the base price of its cars would be rescinded.

However, an average $16 hike in optional equipment would stand, the firm said.

Ford added that it is rolling back most of a price increase on light trucks as well. Ford said it would make refunds to its dealers and encourage them to pass the refunds along to customers who purchased vehicles at the higher prices.

The car and truck price hikes, originally announced last month, took effect with vehicles ordered on or after Jan. 5.

The company said previous lower prices on light trucks would be retained except for a $35 increase to cover the addition of a new shoulder-lap belt system mandated this year by the federal government.

Ford had increased light-duty truck base prices by an average $123, or 2.8%. An additional 1.6% increase in optional equipment prices stands, however, the firm said.

"The reductions effective today (Thursday) are required to keep Ford products competitive in the marketplace and to sustain the sales successes we have experienced with our 1976 models," said sales vice president Bennett E. Bidwell, in announcing the rollback.

Ford said the rollback includes the West German-built Capri. Ford had boosted the imported car's price by $118 at the time of its price announcement last month.

However, an average $320 boost in the price of medium and heavy trucks will remain in effect, the nation's No. 2 car producer said.

The original price hikes translated into 2.2 per cent increase for cars, 2.8 per cent for light trucks and 3 per cent for medium and heavy trucks.

Ford Chairman Henry Ford II had said shortly after the price increase was announced that his firm would reconsider its action if the higher prices dampened Ford sales or if the competition — principally giant General Motors — refused to follow suit.

Nuclear Arms Offer Made
Washington — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger Thursday night gave a new proposal to limit strategic nuclear arms to the Soviet Ambassador, Anatoly F. Dobrynin. Senior administration officials said this proposal represented a toughening and a softening of the administration's September offer which was flatly rejected by Moscow. The toughening is on how to treat the new Soviet bomber known in the West as Backfire.

S. Korea Finds Oil
Seoul, South Korea — President Park Chung Hee confirmed widespread rumors Thursday that oil had been discovered near the Gulf of Yongil, 200 miles southeast of Seoul. He said the finding was made early last month, but the government was not sure how large the deposits were.

Hong Kong — In an impressive demonstration that he is now the man in charge in China, Teng Hsiao-ping, the senior deputy premier, delivered the eulogy Thursday at a large, official memorial service for the late Premier Chou En-Lai. Teng said Chou, had made "indelible contributions" to the Chinese Revolution and called on China's people to learn from the premier's "boundless loyalty" and his "fine style."

London — Britain and Iceland stand at the brink of recalling their ambassadors and breaking diplomatic ties over a dispute that is known, with some hyperbole, as the Cod War. But the dispute is serious to both countries, and to some others as well. In London, it has been debated in the House of Commons.

TV Stations Suggested
New York — The Corporation for Public Broadcasting has asked the Federal Communications Commission to consider a plan for the licensing of new low-powered TV stations, each reaching out a radius of 20 to 30 miles, which it said could add more than 200 stations to the VHF band around the country.

Losses May Cut Budget
New York — The city could be forced to cut its budget by as much as $350 million a year for the next two years of its three-year fiscal plan because of expected losses in revenue, according to a confidential report to the Emergency Financial Control Board by Comptroller Harrison J. Goldin's office.

Peron Cuts Officials, Seeks Breathing Room

An official announcement said she accepted the resignation of Interior Minister Angel F. Robledo, 59, considered a key moderating force who counseled open dialogue with non-Peronist leaders.

She also dropped Foreign Minister Manuel Arauz Castex, Justice Minister Ernesto Corvalan Nanciaras and Defense Minister Tomas Vottero.

The shuffle brought to 55 the number of top-level replacements since the Peronists returned to power in May 1973. Robledo was named in September, the fifth interior minister since Mrs. Peron became president after the July 1974 death of her husband, Juan D. Peron.

Some conservative Peronists accused Robledo several months ago of pushing a campaign to persuade Mrs. Peron to resign or take an extended leave. He has argued since then against proposals such as a federal takeover of Buenos Aires Province. The province's governor, maverick Peronist Victorio Calabro, has challenged Mrs. Peron.

Robledo was replaced by a veteran Peronist economist, Roberto Ares, president of the state-run Bank of the Argentine Nation.

Jose Deheza, a hard-line nationalist lawyer from Cordoba, was made justice minister and temporarily defense minister. Deheza had recommended as a federal prosecutor that Mrs. Peron be cleared in a scandal over a $700,000 check drawn on a charity fund and deposited in her account. The case was dropped recently as he had proposed.

Education Minister Pedro Arrighi was confirmed in his post and named acting foreign minister. Other ministers staying on were Antonio Cafiero of economy, Anibal Demarco of social welfare, and Carlos Buckauf of labor.

Most analysts agreed the changes gave Mrs. Peron more breathing room, but added that if the new cabinet did not at least appear to be governing decisively, the 44-year-old president could again be under heavy pressure to resign.

Military and opposition leaders have been pressing Mrs. Peron for more decisive action on Argentina's economic crisis and political violence.

Official sources said Thursday that presidential elections now scheduled Oct. 17 could be delayed for up to two months because of problems in preparing ballots and voting procedures.

The elections at first were set for March 1977, but Mrs. Peron moved them up in an apparent attempt to relieve heavy pressure on her to step aside in favor of a constitutional caretaker president.

Early Thursday police found three bullet-riddled bodies in separate areas of Buenos Aires Province, all apparent victims of the political violence which has already killed at least 30 persons this year. At least 900 were killed during 1975.

And disagreement over January wage increases threatened to break an uneasy peace between workers and the government.

Varner's Target $5.6 Million For UNL

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln now suffers a deficit of $5.6 million that should be sought to bring state support to the average level of the top three Big Eight schools, NU President D. B. Varner said Thursday.

And to help close the gap, Varner also proposed increasing tuition on a formula that would have students pay 25% of their education costs and state general funds, 75%.

Repeatedly stressing the need for NU to "be able to compete" with the best-funded universities in the conference, Varner said "if we don't get the support level, we're certainly crippled."

Varner acknowledged "maybe it can't be done in one year," saying a two or three-year effort would be acceptable. Nonetheless, it's "enormously important to this university's ability to serve the state."

Study Revealed
At the final meeting Thursday of the Governor's Commission on University Funding, Varner unveiled an NU-compiled study comparing Big Eight schools' 1975-76 costs.

The study in effect could pre-empt comparative data the commission has been assembling for more than a year; Varner suggested the group had gone beyond its charge, by analyzing taxpaying ability and all Nebraska higher education funding, although the reports are "very useful."

Commissioner William C. Erskine, NU executive vice president, recommended including the narrower NU study in the panel's final report to Gov. J. James Exon, to be submitted by late next week.

The NU staff study, aimed at Systems Research Inc., reveals a UNL funding deficit ranging from $2.9 million, based on Nebraska and nonresident student costs, to $6.5 million, based on resident students only — to rise to the top three average.

Programs Excluded
Those deficits exclude funding for agriculture, veterinary science, law, dentistry and special programs such as Curtis operations and Conservation and Survey Division which have no Big Eight counterparts.

The gaps were arrived at by comparing the relation of state funds and tuition support to the total number of student credit hours, weighted to reflect varying costs.

State and tuition support, now $41,548,535, would have to reach $47,175,666 for NU to become competitive with the top three schools this year, Varner said. The $5,627,131 need "is the closest figure, in my judgment," to address what Exon intended when he set up the commission in fall 1974.

To bring the Omaha campus to the same competitive level,

Varner said, would require about $2.8 million more to a total of more than $8 million.

Commission Chairman Gus Lieske, Omaha, said that based on the NU study, a 10% tuition increase would be needed at UNL, from $540 to $590 a year. Varner said tuition hasn't been raised for two or three years despite rising costs and budgets.

'Not Fertile Area'
Full-time undergraduate students pay $123 annually in required fees, second highest in the Big Eight. Combined with tuition, the $663 annual total ranks No. 1, Varner said, noting students don't "represent a very fertile area for getting this (deficit) money."

But "I think students would not be negative to share in the process of closing this gap," he added. Since UNL enrollment is 91.2% Nebraska residents, that causes a "competitive financial disadvantage."

For example, 35% of Colorado University's students are non-residents and each pay $2,212 annually (No. 1 in the Big Eight) to produce significantly more income, Varner said.

Lieske estimated it costs Nebraska almost $1 million to subsidize tuition (No. 3 at $1,570) for non-resident students at UNL. Having them make up that deficit plus a resident tuition increase could whittle the gap that state funds could fill to about $2.9 million.

Iowa State, Kansas and Missouri in almost all cases rank in the top three of state support, Varner said. Nebraska is fourth in general fund appropriations at $31,937,323. Iowa State is tops at $40.3 million.

The commission earlier recommended NU's seek more federal dollars, but Erskine said those have increased overall in the past two to three years. Varner said they mostly are assigned categorically to specific programs — no direct help to flesh out student revenues, and not decreasing the need from state taxes.

Commissioners should "boil it down to things that are reasonably comparable" among regional schools, Varner said, declaring the NU study — prepared after visits to the other seven campuses — has "accurate" statistics.

The commission throughout its all-day meeting was still wrangling with its own voluminous data, arguing that they are either approximations at best, or interpretable in ways so various as to obscure their meaning and applicability for use in determining any NU budget.

Work Deferred
The commission deferred final arithmetical work to Lieske, who will submit that by mail to members for immediate return comment and conclusions. Two main questions loom: Is it the state's responsibility to fill in the decrease in non-state funds, and how valid are the commission data using a formula based on Big Eight schools' total budgets and Nebraskans' taxpaying burden?

Commissioners generally noted funding for the NU Medical Center (except pharmacy) is already at a comparably competitive level, despite some data guesses. Willard Waldo of DeWitt said his subpanel's ag college report will stand, calling for an additional $3.5 million to attain the average of the top three.

State 'Forgot' $5-Million Account

The state's financial problems were not as serious last week as originally thought, state officials have conceded.

Roughly $5 million in the State Revenue Department's tax refund account was not taken into consideration when State Department of Administrative Services (DAS) officials reported the general fund had dipped to $3.6 million.

The refund account is the means by which the state disburses city sales tax revenue to Lincoln, Omaha and Bellevue as well as food tax refunds and individual tax refunds.

Asst. Tax Commissioner Gary Chunks said last week's balance in the refund account was lower than the amount the Revenue Department traditionally has maintained. In the past, the refund account has ranged between $15-$20 million on Jan. 1.

Chunks said he sees no special reason for having the refund money in a special account rather than the general fund.

There has been talk that a bill will be introduced into the Legislature to end the special account for refunds.

Press, Visiting Poles Swap Views

By WES ALBERS
Star Staff Writer

A delegation of Polish agricultural officials learned as much about the American press as Thursday's press conference as the press learned about Polish agriculture.

Maybe more.

With one of the visitors serving as interpreter for the other four, reporters established that Poland hopes to get American plant materials for use in its plant breeding and seed production program.

With a mixture of laughter and amazement, the visitors established that time really is money in America.

The delegation, headed by Dr. Henryk Burczyk, Polish vice minister of agriculture, is midway through a 20-day tour to Washington, D.C., Mexico City, the University of Illinois at Champaign, Ill., and the University of Manitoba at Winnipeg, Canada.

The visit, which will acquaint the officials with developments in plant breeding and seed production, includes a three-day stay at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Burczyk said, because "it is one of the best in the world, especially (in) wheat research.

"Dr. (Virgil A.) Johnson and his staff are well known in other countries."

Poland hopes exchanges of both researchers and plant materials (hybrid seeds, for instance) eventually can be arranged, he said.

Even if Poland succeeds in increasing its grain production with techniques learned during this visit, it will continue importing American wheat through 1980, Burczyk said.

"We are importing from the USSR some amount of grains and will still import," he said. "But we also import a lot of grains from other countries — for instance, the United States, Canada and France."

"I'm not a marketing specialist. But every country tries to buy as cheap as possible and sell as high as possible. So we're doing the same."

Poland purchased more than 2.5 million metric tons of U.S. grain last year. That was about double their normal purchase due to grain losses in the USSR, Poland's major grain provider.

After the press conference, Burczyk and his interpreter, Dr. Jerry Szymmer, vice director of the Institute of Plant Growing and Acclimatization, were asked to repeat part of their statements for two television stations, neither of which sent reporters or cameramen.

So the two patiently pretended to spontaneously answer questions.

When Szymmer was instructed to interpret as quickly as he could, the other three delegates, who speak almost no English, started laughing.

"Ah, time is money, eh?" one said.

"Time is money, time is money," the other two agreed.

After a second run-through for the second station, there was an impromptu conference among the visitors.

"Please, can you tell us what stations and when this is on?" Szymmer asked the university employee. "My friends insist that we are now movie stars."

Negotiations Continue For Terminal Building

Negotiations are under way for sale of the Terminal Building, 10th and O Sts., and the Ninth St. Car Park Building, 9th and O Sts., to three Lincoln men, a Lincoln attorney said Thursday.

The attorney, who asked not to be identified, said a transaction is "pending" and "may very likely lead to a sale, subject to a few things taking place."

He confirmed that the three men negotiating with Lincoln Terminal Co. are Richard L. Svoboda, vice president and secretary-treasurer of Ball Real Estate; Ronald Rosenberg, an attorney; and Gerald Neva, president of the O St. Carpet Shop.

Rosenberg said a contract has been signed but financing is still being arranged.

Appeal Not Available To Mackey

Former State Indian Commissioner Bob Mackey cannot appeal his dismissal to the State Personnel Board, it was learned Thursday.

State Personnel Director Roy Gardner said agency heads, such as Mackey, serve at the pleasure of their respective boards or the governor.

Mackey, who has headed the State Indian Commission since it was formed 5½ years ago, was dismissed last weekend by the commission in a 4-3 vote.

In addition, Gardner noted that the commission's staff is not part of the state personnel system and hence isn't entitled to a hearing before the board.

"He'll have to take it elsewhere," Gardner said.

Mackey said the fact that he has been denied a hearing is hard to believe.

"There should be some sort of due process for me," he said.

The commission fired Mackey for his involvement in intertribal disputes and for ineffective leadership.

Mackey claims he was fired at the urging of the United Indians of Nebraska, a church-affiliated group, which he said is trying to take over the commission.

In addition, his criticism of a recent appointee to the commission made by Gov. J. James Exon played a large role in the effort to remove him, he said.

Varner's Target $5.6 Million For UNL

Friday, January 16, 1976 The Lincoln Star 3

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln now suffers a deficit of $5.6 million that should be sought to bring state support to the average level of the top three Big Eight schools, NU President D. B. Varner said Thursday.

And to help close the gap, Varner also proposed increasing tuition on a formula that would have students pay 25% of their education costs and state general funds, 75%.

Repeatedly stressing the need for NU to "be able to compete" with the best-funded universities in the conference, Varner said "if we don't get the support level, we're certainly crippled."

Varner acknowledged "maybe it can't be done in one year," saying a two or three-year effort would be acceptable.

Nonetheless, it's "enormously important to this university's ability to serve the state."

Study Revealed

At the final meeting Thursday of the Governor's Commission on University Funding, Varner unveiled an NU-compiled study comparing Big Eight schools' 1975-76 costs.

The study in effect could preempt comparative data the commission has been assembling for more than a year; Varner suggested the group had gone beyond its charge, by analyzing taxpaying ability and all Nebraska higher education funding, although the reports are "very useful."

Commissioner William C. Erskine, NU executive vice president, recommended including the narrower NU study in the panel's final report to Gov. J. James Exon, to be submitted by late next week.

The NU staff study, aimed at Systems Research Inc., reveals a UNL funding deficit ranging from $2.9 million, based on Nebraska and nonresident student costs, to $6.5 million, based on resident students only — to rise to the top three average.

Programs Excluded

Those deficits exclude funding for agriculture, veterinary science, law, dentistry and special programs such as Curtis operations and Conservation and Survey Division which have no Big Eight counterparts.

The gaps were arrived at by comparing the relation of state funds and tuition support to the total number of student credit hours, weighted to reflect varying costs.

State and tuition support, now $41,548,535, would have to reach $47,175,666 for NU to become competitive with the top three schools this year, Varner said. The $5,627,131 need "is the closest figure, in my judgment," to address what Exon intended when he set up the commission in fall 1974.

To bring the Omaha campus to the same competitive level,

Varner said, would require about $2.8 million more to a total of more than $8 million.

Commission Chairman Gus Lieske, Omaha, said that based on the NU study, a 10% tuition increase would be needed at UNL, from $540 to $580 a year. Varner said tuition hasn't been raised for two or three years despite rising costs and budgets.

'Not Fertile Area'

Full-time undergraduate students pay $123 annually in required fees, second highest in the Big Eight. Combined with tuition, the $663 annual total ranks No. 1, Varner said, noting students don't "represent a very fertile area for getting this (deficit) money."

But "I think students would not be negative to share in the process of closing this gap," he added. Since UNL enrollment is 91.2% Nebraska residents, that causes a "competitive financial disadvantage."

For example, 35% of Colorado University's students are non-residents and each pay $2,212 annually (No. 1 in the Big Eight) to produce significantly more income, Varner said.

Lieske estimated it costs Nebraska almost $1 million to subsidize tuition (No. 3 at $1,570) for non-resident students at UNL. Having them make up that deficit plus a resident tuition increase could whittle the gap that state funds could fill to about $2.9 million.

Iowa State, Kansas and Missouri in almost all cases rank in the top three of state support, Varner said. Nebraska is fourth in general fund appropriations at $31,937,323. Iowa State is tops at $40.3 million.

The commission earlier recommended NU's seek more federal dollars, but Erskine said those have increased overall in the past two to three years. Varner said they mostly are assigned categorically to specific programs — no direct help to flesh out student revenues, and not decreasing the need from state taxes.

Commissioners should "boil it down to things that are reasonably comparable" among regional schools, Varner said, declaring the NU study — prepared after visits to the other seven campuses — has "accurate" statistics.

The commission throughout its all-day meeting was still wrangling with its own voluminous data, arguing that they are either approximations at best, or interpretable in ways so various as to obscure their meaning and applicability for use in determining any NU budget.

Work Deferred

The commission deferred final arithmetical work to Lieske, who will submit that by mail to members for immediate return comment and conclusions. Two main questions loom: Is it the state's responsibility to fill in the decrease in non-state funds, and how valid are the commission data using a formula based on Big Eight schools' total budgets and Nebraskans' taxpaying burden?

Commissioners generally noted funding for the NU Medical Center (except pharmacy) is already at a comparably competitive level, despite some data guesses. Willard Waldo of DeWitt said his subpanel's ag college report will stand, calling for an additional $3.5 million to attain the average of the top three.

State 'Forgot' $5-Million Account

The state's financial problems were not as serious last week as originally thought, state officials have conceded.

Roughly $5 million in the State Revenue Department's tax refund account was not taken into consideration when State Department of Administrative Services (DAS) officials reported the general fund had dipped to $3.6 million.

The refund account is the means by which the state disburses city sales tax revenue to Lincoln, Omaha and Bellevue as well as food tax refunds and individual tax refunds.

Asst. Tax Commissioner Gary Chunka said last week's balance in the refund account was lower than the amount the Revenue Department traditionally has maintained. In the past, the refund account has ranged between $15-$20 million on Jan. 1.

Chunka said he sees no special reason for having the refund money in a special account rather than the general fund.

There has been talk that a bill will be introduced into the Legislature to end the special account for refunds.

Press, Visiting Poles Swap Views

By WES ALBERS
Star Staff Writer

A delegation of Polish agricultural officials learned as much about the American press at Thursday's press conference as the press learned about Polish agriculture.

Maybe more.

With one of the visitors serving as interpreter for the other four, reporters established that Poland hopes to get American plant materials for use in its plant breeding and seed production program.

With a mixture of laughter and amazement, the visitors established that time really is money in America.

The delegation, headed by Dr. Henryk Burczyk, Polish vice minister of agriculture, is midway through a 20-day tour to Washington, D.C., Mexico City, the University of Illinois at Champaign, Ill., and the University of Manitoba at Winnipeg, Canada.

The visit, which will acquaint the officials with developments in plant breeding and seed production, includes a three-day stay at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Burczyk said, because "(it) is one of the best in the world, especially (in) wheat research.

"Dr. (Virgil A.) Johnson and his staff are well known in other countries."

Poland hopes exchanges of both researchers and plant materials (hybrid seeds, for instance) eventually can be arranged, he said.

Even if Poland succeeds in increasing its grain production with techniques learned during this visit, it will continue importing American wheat through 1980, Burczyk said.

"We are importing from the USSR some amount of grains and will still import," he said. "But we also import a lot of grains from other countries — for instance, the United States, Canada and France."

"I'm not a marketing specialist. But every country tries to buy as cheap as possible and sell as high as possible. So we're doing the same."

Poland purchased more than 2.5 million metric tons of U.S. grain last year. That was about double their normal purchase due to grain losses in the USSR, Poland's major grain provider.

After the press conference, Burczyk and his interpreter, Dr. Jerry Szyrmer, vice director of the Institute of Plant Growing and Acclimatization, were asked to repeat part of their statements for two television stations, neither of which sent reporters or cameramen.

So the two patiently pretended to spontaneously answer questions.

When Szyrmer was instructed to interpret as quickly as he could, the other three delegates, who speak almost no English, started laughing.

"Ah, time is money, eh?" one said.

"Time is money, time is money," the other two agreed.

After a second run-through for the second station, there was an impromptu conference among the visitors.

"Please, can you tell us what stations and when this is on?" Szyrmer asked the university employee. "My friends insist that we are now movie stars."

Negotiations Continue For Terminal Building

Negotiations are under way for sale of the Terminal Building, 10th and O Sts., and the Ninth St. Car Park Building, 9th and O Sts., to three Lincoln men, a Lincoln attorney said Thursday.

The attorney, who asked not to be identified, said a transaction is "pending" and "may very likely lead to a sale, subject to a few things taking place."

He confirmed that the three men negotiating with Lincoln Terminal Co. are Richard L. Svoboda, vice president and secretary-treasurer of Ball Real Estate; Ronald Rosenberg, an attorney; and Gerald Neva, president of the O St. Carpet Shop.

Rosenberg said a contract has been signed but financing is still being arranged.

Last week The Star expressed its opposition to a proposal by State Sen. Walter George of Blair that the Nebraska Public Service Commission be changed from an elective to an appointive body. George indicates that the commission has not properly treated the industries it regulates, especially the one he works for, Huntel, which owns the Blair Telephone Co. An appointed commission of professionals such as lawyers, accountants and engineers would be more appropriate, he says.

Experience in some other states shows that an appointive commission regulating common carriers has worked satisfactorily for both the public and regulated industry. In some cases, however, it hasn't. The constitution of regulatory agencies must fit the traditions and attitudes of the people they serve and that will vary from region to region. This newspaper continues to support direct election to Nebraska's most important and visible regulatory body.

The idea of the people electing regulators who may or may not be steeped in the technical aspects of each industry within the purview of the commission's activity at the time of election does not repel us. The important things are common sense and a lack of bias and data on which to base a decision, data which can be accumulated by a professional staff given the latitude to dig. We assume that in a democratic system the electorate is capable more often than not of choosing persons able to make wise and just decisions. If the electorate is not so capable, we live under the wrong system. We have faith in the system, however. And if the elective process from time to time produces an aggregate of dummies or puppets, that is no reason to change it.

In support of Sen. George's proposal, the Omaha World-Herald observed last week that in its opinion, the Public Service Commission is a comparatively minor government agency, issue-less and uninteresting, one which gets lost in the shuffle at election time. Voters may be more attracted to a candidate's name than his qualifications, that newspaper said. That may have been true at one time, and regrettably, perhaps for too long a time. But it has not been true since the great consumer awakening.

We think people today are interested in such things as transportation routes and rates and utility rates and service and they have a general awareness of whether or not regulators are in bed with regulated industry.

The Nebraska Public Service Commission has been in the news for some time now — for some good decisions, for some bad ones, for ones it didn't make, for the attitudes of its members toward the regulatory function and how they have conducted themselves on the job.

The terms of two of the commissioners expire this year. One, Robert Marland of Lincoln, will retire. The other, Duane Gay of Columbus, has not officially declared his intentions. But interest in the two open seats is mounting. State Sen. Harold Simpson of Lincoln has announced for the seat Marland leaves and former State Sen. Blair Richendifer of Walthill is running in Gay's district. There will be others announcing, we think, because interest in the commission seems to be running high.

This is not a faceless bureaucratic agency, but one which deals with the problems of vital industries and problems important to the broad consumer class. Having its members accountable directly to the people is necessary, in our opinion.

A Blow To Big Green

City Betterment Corp., which operates Omaha's Big Green lottery, is in business solely for the purpose of running a lottery and for no purpose sanctioned by law and thus it must discontinue operation, District Judge James Buckley of Douglas County ruled.

Big Green will continue to sell tickets, apparently, pending an expected appeal. But Buckley's decision is welcomed as a giant step toward ending what is seen here as a sham operation from the very outset. And more than a public nuisance as Buckley ruled it, Big Green and enterprises like it are leeches upon the public body.

Buckley also said that the Omaha lottery also violated the intent of 1969 state legislation which legalized "one-time" lotteries and raffles and allowed Nebraska residents to enter national contests which they were previously prevented from entering.

Nevertheless, the law does provide that bonafide non-profit organizations — Buckley described City Betterment Corp. as one — may sponsor lotteries if their primary purpose is civic betterment or is of a charitable nature. One can wonder whether Buckley would have ruled against Big Green if some revenues had already been pledged toward one of the "civic betterment" schemes which lottery promoters had advertised.

State Sen. John DeCamp said subsequent to the ruling that he would introduce legislation repealing all current lottery provisions and providing that only the state could run a lottery.

Better yet, the law should provide Nebraskans who wish to, the opportunity to enter national contests or church raffles or the like, but place an absolute ban on ongoing lotteries whose avowed purpose is to augment monies spent on public projects.

JAMES RESTON

The Economic Issue

WASHINGTON — In the first phase of the presidential election campaign, the Republicans have succeeded in doing one thing few observers expected them to do. They have dominated the debate so far on the "economic issue" which was the biggest gun in the Democratic Party's arsenal, and this is no modest achievement.

For after seven years of Republican control of the White House, we still have over seven million unemployed — the largest year-long jobless rate in 1975 since the last World War — plus declining but still high prices and interest rates. Yet, most of the Democratic candidates are singing like a choir of conservative bankers.

This cannot be explained by any economic or financial brilliance or consistency on the part of the Ford administration. It has waffled all over the landscape on whether inflation or unemployment was the preeminent issue. Its energy policy has been a jumble of contradictions.

It has promised what it could not deliver, vetoed its own promises, and come into the presidential campaign of 1976 with a budget deficit that makes the Kennedy and Johnson years seem almost a model of fiscal responsibility.

Even on foreign economic policy, the Ford cabinet has been at odds over trading with the Soviet Union and responding to the Third World's calls for a new world economic order.

This phrase, accepted and defended by Secretary Kissinger, drives Secretary Simon up the Treasury wall, and the internal disputes over the defense budget and labor policy have left the President with a cabinet of apologetic holdovers from the Nixon days, plus new men at Commerce, Defense, Interior and the CIA, who will scarcely have time to master their jobs before the voting next November.

Yet, the economic and financial crisis of the last year has been just severe enough to change almost all political assumptions. Not only in this country, but in the rest of the advanced industrial world of Europe and Japan, the rates of inflation and unemployment have challenged not merely the governments in power, but the whole theory of the welfare state.

The financial crises in Britain and in New York City have dramatized the problem.

Outside of the radical populist Fred Harris, who is so extreme a critic of the capitalist system that he doesn't have a chance, the rest of the Democratic candidates are extremely defensive on economic policy.

They seem to sense that the mood of the American voter is conservative, at least for the present, that the old Democratic, Harry Hopkins formula of "spend and spend tax and tax, elect and elect," won't work in the presidential election of 1976. So most of them are waiting, compromising, and trying to sound more responsible and conservative than the Republicans.

In such ways are the Democrats losing "the economic issue," which is probably their main hope of regaining the White House. They have so many candidates who are fighting one another that they are trying to follow public opinion rather than leading it, and concentrating on the Ford-Reagan conservative, anti-government philosophy rather than opposing it head-on.

Almost the only prominent Democrat who has warned them against this course of action is the Harvard economist, John Kenneth Galbraith. "If Democrats continue on (this) course," he said the other day, "they will have deserted their natural constituency. We won't be worth electing. Nor will we be elected. For, as Harry Truman once observed, given a choice between two conservative parties, people will always choose the one that is honestly and deliberately so."

Bob Strauss, the chairman of the Democratic National Committee, is not so worried about the personal struggle for the Democratic presidential nomination as he is about this philosophic controversy within the Democratic Party. For he believes the Democrats can win with any moderate candidate, provided they don't lose "the economic issue."

He is planning, with the greatest care, a resolution or compromise of the Democratic Party's problem. If there is a stand-off in the primary elections, with nobody having a clear and decisive lead, then he believes the leaders of the party will have to agree on a compromise candidate, not at the last minute in the convention hall, but ahead of time, probably at the Governors' Conference in Philadelphia in the first week of July, and probably on "the economic issue."

Strauss and all the other leaders of the Democratic Party are worried about this first phase of the campaign — not about the battle between Ford and Reagan — but about the fact that between the Democratic candidates, the Republicans have put the Democrats on the defensive on economic policy — in effect stolen the Democrats' main issue.

WILLIAM SAFIRE

WASHINGTON — A "dead-key," in Washington parlance, is a receiving extension built into a telephone to permit a secretary to listen in to her boss' conversations without the caller suspecting that everything said is being overheard by a third party.

As soon as they entered the White House, and a full two years before the secret Nixon taping system was installed, Henry Kissinger and his deputy, Al Haig, made certain that relays of secretaries on "dead-keys" made verbatim notes of all that was said to them over the telephone. The callers — reporters, colleagues, presidents — were never told that their words were always being taken down.

But within the White House, it was no big secret; aides could see the secretaries outside Henry's door, extensions to their ears, taking shorthand silently. These notes would be typed up in rough form, sometimes for Kissinger's editing before being retyped and filed.

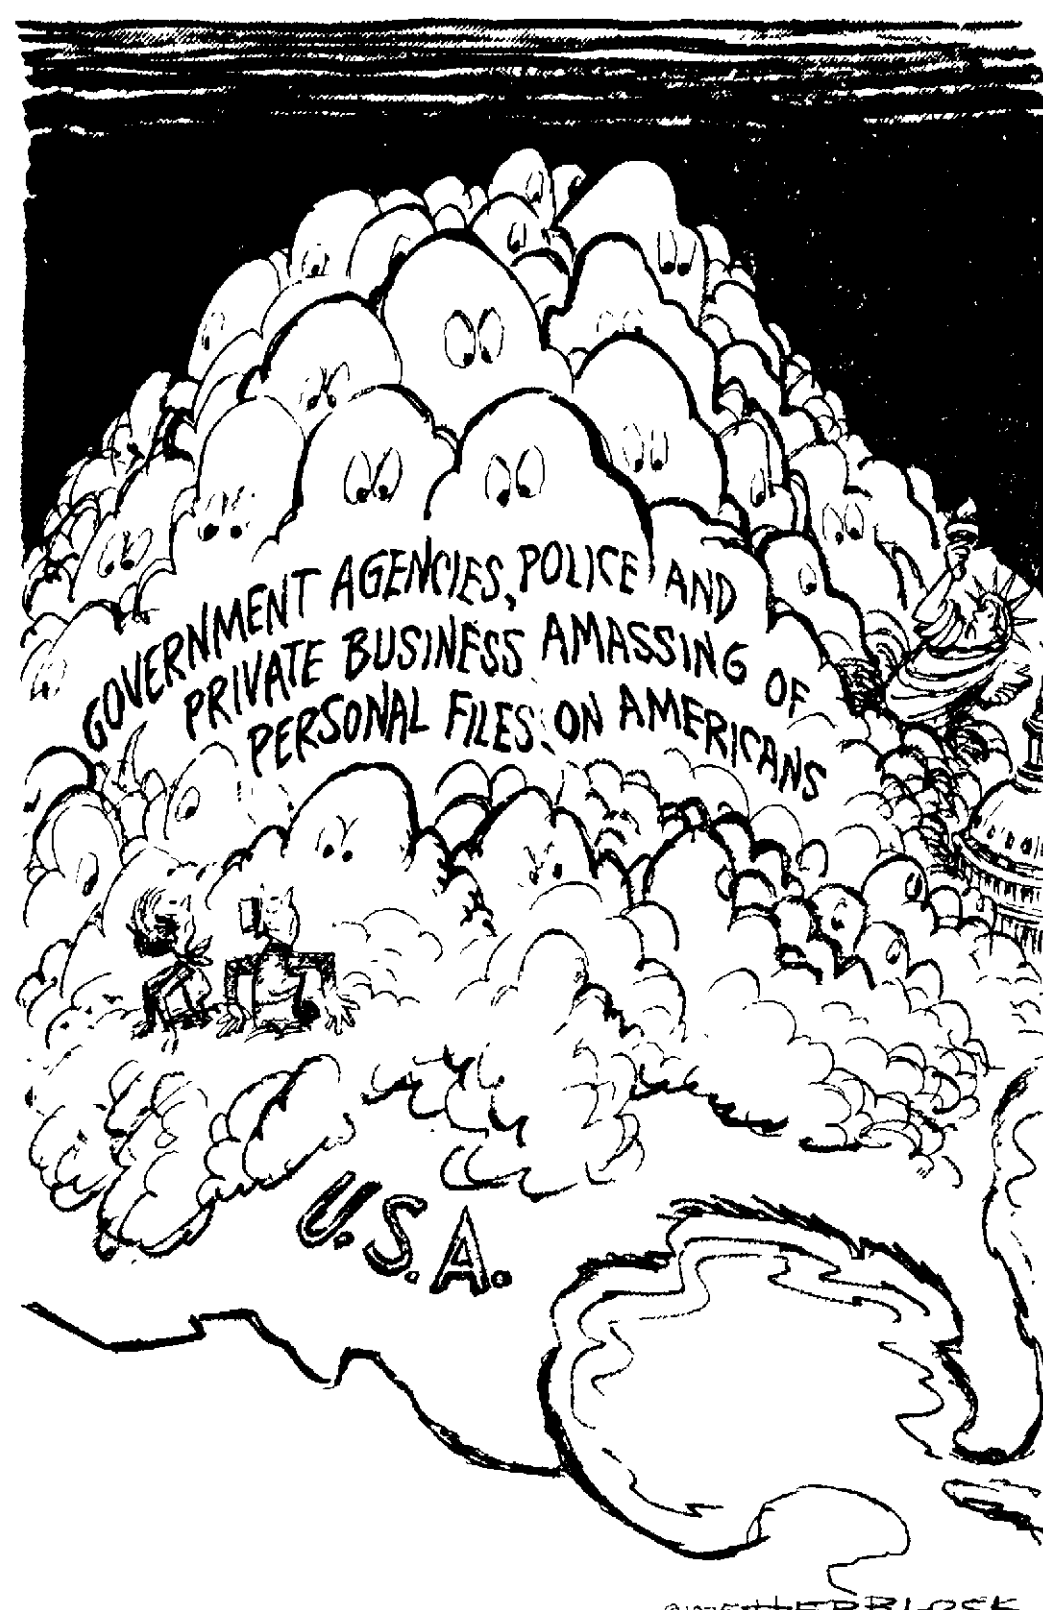

In 1971, my then-colleague and friend, Henry, showed me the transcript of a conversation with a reporter for The Christian Science Monitor, in which the national security advisor chewed him out for a less-than-adequate article. Since he was planning to send the transcript to President Nixon, the rough draft had "corrections" marked by Kissinger, adding to the fierce loyalty of his own remarks.

Even with the self-serving emendations, these transcripts are an invaluable, irreplaceable part of the record of the Nixon presidency — predating as well as paralleling the White House tapes. What has happened to them? The other day, we began to find out.

In a sworn answer to a question submitted to him by Morton Halperin, who is suing Kissinger for his part in ordering illegal FBI wiretapping, the secretary of state writes: "Business telephone conversations from my White House office during this period (Jan. 21, 1969 to Feb. 12, 1971) were usually monitored by my personal secretaries and records prepared, in accordance with routine government practice, in order to facilitate implementation and follow-up of business transacted."

And where are all his records kept? Appointment books, correspondence, schedules of his White House years, says Kissinger, have remained where they belong: "All such records, with the exception of the records of my telephone calls, are in the White House. They are in the custody of the NSC staff. The telephone records are in the State Department, in custody of Mr. Lawrence S. Eagleburger."

Hold on a minute. When Kissinger left the White House, he left everything behind — "with the exception of the records of my telephone calls." Those are not mere logs of calls, of which he took a copy — those are substantive, verbatim transcripts of conversations, of which he took the only copy. Some questions arise:

(1) When were the dead-key scrolls removed from the White House NSC files? According to Kissinger, within a month after Kissinger's appointment as secretary of state in 1973. (But Kissinger continued as national security adviser at that time, and left behind his other NSC files — presumably he wanted to get these super-sensitive files out of the White House, fast.)

(2) Under what authority did he take them? Eagleburger claims he needed no authority — that these four years of records were considered "working papers" that can accompany him wherever he goes, as long as he's in government. "And afterward?" "I presume he would leave copies behind, but that's a legal question."

(3) Why didn't he leave the originals where they belonged at the NSC, and only take copies, if all he wanted was access to "working papers"? No answer to that. Did Al Haig walk off with his telephone transcripts, too? Gen. Brent Scowcroft, the present national security adviser, will not return calls on these matters; he has probably offered no objection to having the NSC files denuded of all these transcripts.

(4) Who owns these transcripts? The Justice Department last week won a decision in the Court of Appeals in which congressional seizure of the papers of the Nixon presidency was held constitutional. If NSC transcripts are presidential papers — as they surely are — then, as of now, they belong to the public and not to Henry Kissinger.

(5) Why have these transcripts never been subpoenaed? Ah, that's the big one. The special prosecutor's investigation of the seventeen wiretaps was a joke; the Senate Foreign Relations Committee look-see was a Kissinger whitewash from start to finish; the Church cover-up committee is afraid of what a subpoena might turn up, and the woebegone Pike committee knows that the House won't back up any subpoena.

One ray of light. By removing the dead-key scrolls from the White House, leaving no copies behind, and by dint of the tacit White House approval of the removal to a government department, Kissinger has made his years of conversations subject to the Freedom of Information Act. And citizens may rush in where solons fear to tread.

JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Except for a frequent weakness for fattening foods, the Democratic presidential candidates seem to be physically fit for the job.

We have examined their medical records and interviewed their doctors.

SHAPP

Only Alabama's Gov. George Wallace has a serious health problem. Yet he is in remarkably good shape, considering that he is confined by paralysis to a wheelchair.

Both Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Rep. Mo Udall, D-Ariz., have heart murmurs. But their condition is not at all serious, their doctors attest.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Ida., had a cancer operation 20 years ago. But according to his doctor, Church is no more susceptible to cancer today than is a person who has never had the disease.

HUMPHREY

The Senate's hard-driving majority whip, Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W. Va., has a number of chronic problems which indicate he is under constant tension. His doctor, nevertheless, pronounced him in "excellent" health.

McGOVERN

Here is a rundown, in alphabetical order, of the health of the leading Democratic candidates:

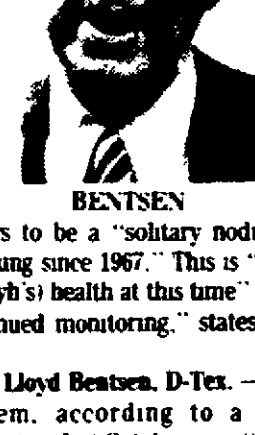

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind. — His latest medical report describes him as a "vigorous person with a regular exercise habit." His only active medical problem

BAYH

The examination also found "no significant change" in a high-frequency hearing loss first discovered in 1969.

Ex-Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla. — Except for a "significant weight problem," he is in fine condition. His medical history includes an ulcer developed while he was in law school, a gunshot wound from a hun-appears to be a "solitary nodule in his right lung since 1967." This is "no threat to (Bayh's) health at this time" but needs "continued monitoring," states the doctor.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex. — His only problem, according to a medical examination last October, was "a more or less rhythmic twitch of the cheek, right corner of his mouth associated with blinking of his eyes." The twitch "ceased to occur" after it was pointed out to Bentsen.

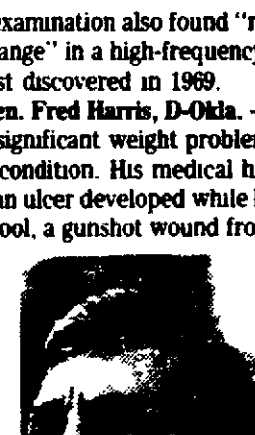

Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W. Va. — He is plagued by a number of minor, active problems which require medical attention. To relieve a nervous tremor, the Senator sometimes uses "sherry before meals and before stressful situations such as speech-making." His doctor also prescribed Inderal to help reduce the tension.

Byrd suffers from various stomach and lower tract disorders. Although he has an inactive ulcer, "he routinely uses four teaspoons of Maalox at bedtime."

Ex-Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia — His doctor states that Carter is "able to carry on at an amazing pace with no evident fatigue." The doctor found "no indication of any diabetic tendency or any fat tendency in the blood tests. Apparently, Carter keeps his weight under control and exercises regularly."

rayed." Since the removal of the cancer trace, according to his doctor, Humphrey's bladder "is no different now than it was eight years ago."

BYRD

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash. — He suffers from "chronic nasal stuffiness," is also allergic to "adhesive tape, strawberries, eggs, plated gold and wool."

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D. — Because of an insufficiency in his heart, his doctors have advised him to take preventive antibiotics to avoid infections from surgical procedures. Otherwise, his heart murmur doesn't affect him.

Gov. Milton Shapp of Pennsylvania — A kidney stone recently gave him trouble, but it apparently has been passed. All his other medical tests show him to be in good health.

CHURCH

Rep. Mo Udall, D-Ariz. — A heart murmur has been detected but only "at maximal stress." His physician, therefore, views this as a finding "of questionable significance."

PSC Interest High

Last week The Star expressed its opposition to a proposal by State Sen. Walter George of Blair that the Nebraska Public Service Commission be changed from an elective to an appointive body. George indicates that the commission has not properly treated the industries it regulates, especially the one he works for, Huntel, which owns the Blair Telephone Co. An appointed commission of professionals such as lawyers, accountants and engineers would be more appropriate, he says.

Experience in some other states shows that an appointive commission regulating common carriers has worked satisfactorily for both the public and regulated industry. In some cases, however, it hasn't. The constitution of regulatory agencies must fit the traditions and attitudes of the people they serve and that will vary from region to region. This newspaper continues to support direct election to Nebraska's most important and visible regulatory body.

The idea of the people electing regulators who may or may not be steeped in the technical aspects of each industry within the purview of the commission's activity at the time of election does not repel us. The important things are common sense and a lack of bias and data on which to base a decision, data which can be accumulated by a professional staff given the latitude to dig. We assume that in a democratic system the electorate is capable more often than not of choosing persons able to make wise and just decisions. If the electorate is not so capable, we live under the wrong system. We have faith in the system, however. And if the elective process from time to time produces an aggregate of dummies or puppets, that is no reason to change it.

In support of Sen. George's proposal,

the Omaha World-Herald observed last week that in its opinion, the Public Service Commission is a comparatively minor government agency, issue-less and uninteresting, one which gets lost in the shuffle at election time. Voters may be more attracted to a candidate's name than his qualifications, that newspaper said. That may have been true at one time, and regrettably, perhaps for too long a time. But it has not been true since the great consumer awakening.

We think people today are interested in such things as transportation routes and rates and utility rates and service and they have a general awareness of whether or not regulators are in bed with regulated industry.

The Nebraska Public Service Commission has been in the news for some time now — for some good decisions, for some bad ones, for ones it didn't make, for the attitudes of its members toward the regulatory function and how they have conducted themselves on the job.

The terms of two of the commissioners expire this year. One, Robert Marland of Lincoln, will retire. The other, Duane Gay of Columbus, has not officially declared his intentions. But interest in the two open seats is mounting. State Sen. Harold Simpson of Lincoln has announced for the seat Marland leaves and former State Sen. Blair Richendifer of Walthill is running in Gay's district. There will be others announcing, we think, because interest in the commission seems to be running high.

This is not a faceless bureaucratic agency, but one which deals with the problems of vital industries and problems important to the broad consumer class. Having its members accountable directly to the people is necessary, in our opinion.

A Blow To Big Green

City Betterment Corp., which operates Omaha's Big Green lottery, is in business solely for the purpose of running a lottery and for no purpose sanctioned by law and thus it must discontinue operation, District Judge James Buckley of Douglas County ruled.

Big Green will continue to sell tickets, apparently, pending an expected appeal. But Buckley's decision is welcomed as a giant step toward ending what is seen here as a sham operation from the very outset. And more than a public nuisance as Buckley ruled it, Big Green and enterprises like it are leeches upon the public body.

Buckley also said that the Omaha lottery also violated the intent of 1969 state legislation which legalized "one-time" lotteries and raffles and allowed Nebraska residents to enter national contests which they were previously prevented from entering.

JAMES RESTON

The Economic Issue

WASHINGTON — In the first phase of the presidential election campaign, the Republicans have succeeded in doing one thing few observers expected them to do. They have dominated the debate so far on the "economic issue" which was the biggest gun in the Democratic Party's arsenal, and this is no modest achievement.

For after seven years of Republican control of the White House, we still have over seven million unemployed — the largest year-long jobless rate in 1975 since the last World War — plus declining but still high prices and interest rates. Yet, most of the Democratic candidates are singing like a choir of conservative bankers.

This cannot be explained by any economic or financial brilliance or consistency on the part of the Ford administration. It has waffled all over the landscape on whether inflation or unemployment was the presiding issue. Its energy policy has been a jumble of contradictions.

It has promised what it could not deliver, vetoed its own promises, and come into the presidential campaign of 1976 with a budget deficit that makes the Kennedy and Johnson years seem almost a model of fiscal responsibility.

Even on foreign economic policy, the Ford cabinet has been at odds over trading with the Soviet Union and responding to the Third World's calls for a "new world economic order."

This phrase, accepted and defended by Secretary Kissinger, drives Secretary Simon up the Treasury wall, and the internal disputes over the defense budget and labor policy here have left the President with a cabinet of aggrieved holdovers from the Nixon days, plus new men at Commerce, Defense, Interior and the CIA, who will scarcely have time to master their jobs before the voting next November.

Yet, the economic and financial crisis of the last year has been just severe enough to change almost all political assumptions. Not only in this country, but in the rest of the advanced industrial world of Europe and Japan, the rates of inflation and unemployment have challenged not merely the governments in power, but the whole theory of the welfare state.

The financial crises in Britain and in New York City have dramatized the problem.

Outside of the radical populist Fred Harris, who is so extreme a critic of the capitalist system that he doesn't have a chance, the rest of the Democratic candidates are extremely defensive on economic policy.

They seem to sense that the mood of the American voter is conservative, at least for the present, that the old Democratic, Harry Hopkins formula of "spend and spend, tax and tax, elect and elect," won't work in the presidential election of 1976. So most of them are waiting, compromising, and trying to sound more responsible and conservative than the Republicans.

In such ways are the Democrats losing "the economic issue," which is probably their main hope of regaining the White House. They have so many candidates who are fighting one another that they are trying to follow public opinion rather than leading it, and concentrating on the Ford-Reagan conservative, anti-government philosophy rather than opposing it head-on.

Almost the only prominent Democrat who has warned them

against this course of action is the Harvard economist, John Kenneth Galbraith. "If Democrats continue on (this) course," he said the other day, "they will have deserted their natural constituency. We won't be worth electing. Nor will we be elected. For, as Harry Truman once observed, given a choice between two conservative parties, people will always choose the one that is honestly and deliberately so."

Bob Strauss, the chairman of the Democratic National Committee, is not so worried about the personal struggle for the Democratic presidential nomination as he is about this philosophic controversy within the Democratic Party. For he believes the Democrats can win with any moderate candidate, provided they don't lose "the economic issue."

He is planning, with the greatest care, a resolution or compromise of the Democratic Party's problem. If there is a stand-off in the primary elections, with nobody having a clear and decisive lead, then he believes the leaders of the party will have to agree on a compromise candidate, not at the last minute in the convention hall, but ahead of time, probably at the Governors Conference in Philadelphia in the first week of July, and probably on "the economic issue."

Strauss and all the other leaders of the Democratic Party are worried about this first phase of the campaign — not about the battle between Ford and Reagan — but about the fact that between the Democratic candidates, the Republicans have put the Democrats on the defensive on economic policy — in effect stolen the Democrats' main issue.

New Blank On Tax Form A Puzzler

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

The federal government has put a new wrinkle into an old headache — the federal income tax forms.

A new blank on the forms, 1040 and 1040A (calling for residence information) has many Nebraska taxpayers puzzled.

The question under the heading Requested by Census Bureau for Revenue Sharing, asks for the name of the township in which a taxpayer maintains his principal residence.

Taxpayers in two-thirds of Nebraska's 93 counties can ignore this township question said Everett Lours, district director of IRS for Nebraska.

Only those residents in the 28 counties which have township governments must fill out Question D, he said.

The reason for this is that in Nebraska townships are eligible to receive revenue sharing funds.

Short Form 1040A U.S. Individual Income Tax Return 1975

1. Name (Last, first, and middle initial) _____
2. Home address (Number and street) _____
3. Social Security number _____
4. If you are married, give the name and address of your spouse _____
5. If you are married, give the date of birth of your spouse _____
6. If you are married, give the date of birth of your child _____
7. If you are married, give the date of birth of your child _____
8. If you are married, give the date of birth of your child _____
9. If you are married, give the date of birth of your child _____
10. If you are married, give the date of birth of your child _____

These precincts have no form of precinct government and thus are not eligible for revenue sharing funds. All the revenue sharing funds go to the county government.

Taxpayers in these 65 counties should leave Question D blank. They should, however, complete all the other revenue sharing questions (A, B and C), he cautioned.

Taxpayers in both Omaha and Lincoln can ignore the township question since both counties are precinct counties.

The instructions for Question

D in the revenue sharing line ask that taxpayers put either their township or precinct down.

Those instructions do not apply for Nebraska. Some states do have a precinct form of government equivalent to Nebraska's township form, explained Allen Beermann, secretary of state.

Because of the confusion, separate instructions have been prepared for each state, he said. Residents in the following counties will have to fill out the blank for township name:

Adams, Antelope, Boyd, Buffalo, Burl, Butler, Clay,

Cuming, Custer, Dixon, Dodge, Fillmore, Franklin, Gage, Hall, Harlan, Holt, Kearney, Knox, Merrick, Nance, Phelps, Platte, Saunders, Sherman, Thurston, Valley, Washington.

If you have difficulty answering the residence questions you may be able to obtain assistance from your local government officials.

If they are unable to answer your inquiries write to the Bureau of Census, Residence Question, Washington D.C. 20233 or call collect (812-948-2111) between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. (EST) weekdays.

Fremont To Honor 18 Hotel Dead Sunday

By TOM COOK

Onstate Nebraska Bureau
Fremont — The last victims have been pulled from the wreckage of the Pathfinder Hotel in Fremont and a city in mourning will honor its 18 dead Sunday.

Although the mental scars will probably never be healed, Thursday the city was readying itself to rebuild.

The Fremont City Council and Mayor Arthur Peters proclaimed Sunday a day of mourning.

The proclamation declared, "The City of Fremont has been witness to the most devastating disaster in its history. And the citizens of Fremont have responded in a heroic manner to minimize the loss of life and property."

Officials pledged the city to total dedication and cooperation in the restoration of lost property.

Fremont Fire Chief Howard Schneider said he will issue a report on the causes of Saturday's blast and subsequent fire "in a matter of days."

Fremont Building Inspector George Radil said Thursday the Pathfinder and all businesses within will have to be demolished.

Radil recommended demolition of the buildings housing the Vienna Bakery, Smithorpe Studio, Trading Post Antique Shop second floor of Rumps plumbing, and Harry Stevens law offices.

The Love Opera House suffered no structural damage but there was plaster damage on the ceilings and one of the joists had been knocked ajar, Radil said.

The building housing the First Nebraska Insurance Co. can be saved, according to Radil, if the owner is willing to rebuild the south wall which adjoins one of the buildings recommended for demolition.

Vons Furniture Store building can be saved if new construction is completed to support the front and west side.

Other buildings were damaged by the explosion but minor repairs can save them, Radil said.

Newly elected Chamber of Commerce president John Young said Thursday that many businessmen have offered their help but not much can be accomplished until insurance claims are made and those affected know just how badly their businesses were damaged.

Hotel Scene Of 1954 Explosion

Fremont — Almost exactly 22 years ago Hotel Pathfinder was the target of another explosion. Although minor compared to Saturday's tragedy, the Feb. 23, 1954, blast was officially determined as a natural gas explosion. In the earlier blast loss included materials in a storeroom of Brown Drug, a window of the drug store, and damage to three concrete walls.

The late Deputy State Fire Marshal V.W. German stated in his official report that the 1954 blast was caused by "natural gas seeping through the west wall of the building" through a defective gas main.

Fortunately, no lives were lost in that explosion.

Meanwhile, among the buildings damaged in Saturday's holocaust was Love-Larson Opera House, whose restoration had been the goal of several groups over an extended time.

Community-minded citizens and history buffs have worked for months to save the opera house and hoped to restore it to its original state to function as a regional cultural center, a playhouse, a convention site.

Saturday's explosion across the street rocked the sturdy opera house, shattered all its windows including stained-glass ones, and hurled concrete into the lower level.

Observers fear delicate artwork in a dome of the opera house was damaged beyond repair.

Members of the Fremont Art Association plan a massive cleanup of the opera house Jan. 24, according to Jean Weststead.

A Lincoln couple, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Martin, owners of the Pathfinder Antiques located in the Fremont hotel, said the blast destroyed some rare pieces of art glass in their shop, some of them irreplaceable. As yet the Martins have not been able to determine their loss in dollars.

Judge Tired Of Drunks

Kearney (UPI) — Buffalo County Associate Judge Ken Gotobed Thursday said he resigned from the bench Wednesday after growing "tired of working with drunks and picking cases" that come before an associate judge.

Gotobed said he considered resigning for some time, but the deciding factor was an apparent loss of faith from members of the Kearney police department.

He said Buffalo County Judge J. Karr Taylor told him a few police officers had requested specifically that Gotobed not set the bond for three young Kearney men charged with assaulting Police Capt. Ed Davidson.

Gotobed said the officers apparently believed he would be too lenient.

He also said he was one of the applicants for a recent appointment to a district court judgeship. He said failure to receive the appointment had a bearing on his decision to resign.

Gotobed, a former county attorney, said he will return to a private law practice.

Senator Fong Leaving Office

Honolulu (UPI) — Hiram L. Fong, the first U.S. senator of Asian ancestry, announced that he will retire this year at the end of his current term.

Fong, a multimillionaire Republican, cited an ever growing workload and a wish to spend more time with family and friends in Hawaii as reasons for his decision. He hinted, however, that he may again seek elective office in the future.

Simants Case Should Enter Final Phase Tonight

By DEAN TERRILL
Nebraska Bureau
North Platte — The fate of Erwin Charles Simants, accused of an Oct 18 shooting rampage which left six members of a Sutherland family dead, probably will be in the hands of a Lincoln County district court by Friday evening.

Deliberations of the five-man seven woman jury obviously will center on the mental condition of the 30-year-old defendant at the time of the incident. He has admitted the killings as well as sex acts on two of the three female victims, but entered a plea of innocent due to insanity.

His defense, calling only five witnesses, has characterized him as a borderline retarded alcoholic who suffered an acute psychotic break the night of the murders.

Deputy County Attorney Marvin Holscher, who has handled all the prosecution's questioning during the 10-day trial, has indicated he will push for the death penalty in closing arguments. Should Simants be found guilty, the sentencing will be determined by Judge Hugh Stuart.

Instructions to the jury will be complicated by the fact six separate first degree counts are involved, each including both premeditated murder and murder while committing or attempting to commit sexual assault. There are indications the instructions will include the possibilities of a second degree or manslaughter verdict as well.

Among witnesses, Thursday morning were three Sutherland bartenders who testified that Simants did not appear drunk either before or after six October 18 murders in that community.

Testimony indicated that Simants was in the Rodeo Bar all afternoon the day of the crime, then stopped by each of the town's two bars and drank one beer at each after the six members of the Henry Kellie family were killed.

Larry Sadle, part time bartender at the Rodeo, said Simants most definitely was not drunk at 6 p.m. — about two hours before the shootings were said to have occurred.

Jack Humphrey, owner of that bar and Junior Eberly, part time bartender at the Longhorn Bar, both said Simants did not appear drunk when ordering a beer at each place shortly after the crime to which he has admitted.

"I believe he had a beer and probably left immediately," said Humphrey. "I don't believe he even sat down."

Dan Albrecht, a North Platte masonry contractor for whom Simants had worked intermittently as a laborer, said Simants got along well with fellow employees and "performed his work real well. But he said his work pattern was unsteady."

"He would work a couple weeks, then take his pay and go on a drunk for a week," said the contractor.

The defendant was characterized as a model prisoner "since his Oct 19 arrest by two jail attendants and Sheriff Gordon Gilster. The latter a recall witness also said he could see no evidence of a mental problem in Simants since he was jailed.

He isn't one of those bawling persons, but after he knows you pretty well, he'll sit down and carry on a conversation," the sheriff said.

Jail attendants William Hartnell and Albert McKan said the prisoner reads books and magazines and has written letters on occasion.

Dr. Steven Scott, director of the Pioneer Mental Health Clinic in Seward and a clinical psychologist, said in an evaluation of Simants last Sunday he found no evidence of "organic brain dysfunction." But under cross-examination, the psychologist acknowledged that he had not tested for schizophrenia or other mental illness not organically caused.

On the witness stand for about a half hour, Scott also indicated that the defendant probably knew right from wrong at the time of the Oct 18 incident. He also said he detected some "memory disturbance" in the subject now.

Before resting its case

Wednesday, the defense characterized Simants as psychotic, mentally retarded and an alcoholic. Dr. Jack Anderson, a consulting Lincoln psychiatrist, and North Platte psychologist Dr. Sam Campanella backed that contention.

Only three other witnesses were called in behalf of the 30-year-old defendant.

Campanella was on the witness stand most of the day explaining a battery of tests he administered to Simants in three separate interviews earlier this month. Anderson said he saw the defendant for only 1½ hours last Sunday but made a diagnosis based partly upon Campanella's previous testing.

"In my opinion, within a reasonable degree of medical certainty, the defendant experienced an acute psychotic break," said Anderson of the Oct 18 incident to which Simants has admitted.

Anderson also testified that he felt Simants did not know what he was doing at the time of the incident, did not know right from wrong and was unaware that his acts could bring punishment. These are the three criteria previously referred to in the trial as constituting legal insanity.

Upon cross-examination, however, the consultant acknowledged that another psychiatrist might arrive at a "different conclusion" even using the same tests to which Simants was subjected.

Campanella said he believed Simants "was aware of what he was doing" when he committed the crimes. At one point he described the defendant as having "no emotion, no emotion whatsoever."

Campanella refused to agree with the prosecution that several, apparent concealment acts indicated Simants knew the difference between right and wrong among these were his covering of one body with a blanket, wiping up blood from the floor and turning out room lights after the shootings.

Across Nebraska

Simants To Honor Mrs. Barney
Crete — Mrs. Kent (Mary) Barney will receive the Crete Ser-toma Club Service to Mankind Award at a banquet here Sunday. Her volunteer work dates back to the time she attended school in Reading, Pa. and was done on behalf of the Foundation for Poho, a disease that later confined her to a wheelchair. Coming to Crete in 1966, Mrs. Barney has had two prime concerns here, the choir at Bethlehem Lutheran Church and the patients at the Crete Municipal Hospital.

Lough Decides Against Race
Albion — Jack Lough, 65, former publisher of the Albion News, has announced that he will not run for the Third District Congressional race. He had said last fall that he was considering running for the seat now held by Rep. Virginia Smith of Chappell. A Republican, Lough cited his age and health as reasons for not entering the race.

Heyne Tabbed ASC Chairman
Willard D. Heyne of Fremont has been named chairman of the Nebraska State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, replacing Robert Philipson of Bloomington. Arlee Phillips of Hemingford was named a member of the committee. Heyne, 57, built and operates an alfalfa dehydrating plant in addition to maintaining 1,575 acres of farmland in Dodge and Burt counties.

Newton Heads Loup Power Board
Columbus (UPI) — H. Keith Newton, an Albion banker, is the new president of the Loup Power District board of directors, replacing Dr. F. J. Brown of Genoa. Others taking office during the board's annual reorganization were Robert Kayton, Cedar Rapids, first vice president; Barney Micek, Columbus, second vice president; Clarence Witter, Humphrey, treasurer; John Byrnes, Columbus, secretary. The board also approved unofficially the filing of an application by Platte County for matching federal funds to enlarge a bridge across the Loup canal northwest of Columbus.

Kulba Named Thayer Assessor
Hebron — Maxine Kulba has been appointed Thayer County assessor, replacing Dean Miller, who resigned. The new assessor has served as deputy assessor since last October and has worked in the office the past year.

Showing Of Fluoridation Film OK'd
Grand Island (UPI) — The Hall County-Grand Island Board of Health has authorized the showing of an educational film outlining the benefits of a fluoridation program. Ed Edwards, board director, said the film, which was made by the American Dental Association, may prompt adverse comments, but he said education on fluoridation is necessary.

17 Media Firms Join Gag Rule Fight

Washington (UPI) — Major newspaper publishers and broadcasters told the Supreme Court Thursday that orders forbidding reporting of court action pose a greater threat to the nation than possible misconduct by the press.

Seventeen large news organizations, including the New York Times, NBC and CBS, urged the justices to overturn a court order which barred reporting of open court testimony, given at a pre-trial hearing, about a confession and other statements and evidence against a defendant in a sensational Nebraska murder case.

The high court has set the case for oral arguments some time this term. But it declined to lift the judge's order, which expired by its own terms when a jury was sequestered earlier this month in the murder trial of Erwin C. Simants in North Platte. Simants is on trial for allegedly slaying six persons while attempting a sexual assault.

Lincoln County District Judge Hugh Stuart ordered news media attending a preliminary hearing, which was open to the public, to suppress information about Simants' alleged confession and other actions pointing to possible guilt. He said the defendant's right to a fair trial would be jeopardized by such publicity.

National news media submitted a "friend of the court" brief Thursday asking that Stuart's decision be struck down as a violation of the Constitution's First Amendment guarantee of a free press.

Joining in the brief were the Philadelphia Inquirer and Daily News, the Chicago Sun-Times and Daily News, Dow Jones and Co., Publishers of the Wall Street Journal, Reader's Digest, the Public Broadcasting Service, Parade magazine, Harte-Hanks Newspapers, and several press organizations, including the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

The brief cited numerous cases and legal studies suggesting that publicity in sensational trials be minimized by imposing restraints on lawyers and judges, rather than on the media.

"It is, we submit, the hypothesis of the First Amendment that the press will, often enough, act at its probing, incisive, ubiquitous best," the brief said, "and that it will, often enough, expose wrongdoing and wrongdoers and that it must be free, without advance censorship, to print as it chooses."

"It is also the hypothesis of the First Amendment that with all the potential for harm that must be acknowledged in a press as free as exists in this country, the greater risk is governmental misconduct — misconduct that only a press that is free is able to expose."

Local Rail Layoffs Said Few

A systemwide layoff of Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad employees will have little impact on its Nebraska work force, according to a Lincoln spokesman.

The Lincoln agency has only two employees — an agent and a chief clerk-cashier. Other Nebraska agencies are in Fairbury, Hallam and Louisville.

The Rock Island, which operates in 13 states, furloughed 425 workers this week — 7% of its total management and 5% of its rank and file employees.

Neglected Class To Get Attention

Doors will open at the new Alta Bates Hospital Center for those in trouble at work or home because of drinking problems.

"Contrary to popular belief, less than 5% of the nation's alcoholics are found on skid row," said a spokesman for the institution.

North Platte — The fate of Erwin Charles Simants, accused of an Oct. 18 shooting rampage which left six members of a Sutherland family dead, probably will be in the hands of a Lincoln County district court by Friday evening.

Deliberations of the five-man, seven-woman jury obviously will center on the mental condition of the 30-year-old defendant at the time of the incident. He has admitted the killings as well as sex acts on two of the three female victims, but entered a plea of innocent due to insanity.

His defense, calling only five witnesses, has characterized him as a "borderline retarded" alcoholic who suffered an "acute psychotic break" the night of the murders.

Deputy County Attorney Marvin Holscher, who has handled all the prosecution's questioning during the 10-day trial, has indicated he will push for the death penalty in closing arguments. Should Simants be found guilty, the sentencing will be determined by Judge Hugh Stuart.

Instructions to the jury will be complicated by the fact six separate first degree counts are involved, each including both premeditated murder and murder while committing or attempting to commit sexual assault. There are indications the instructions will include the possibilities of a second degree or manslaughter verdict as well.

Among witnesses Thursday morning were three Sutherland bartenders who testified that Simants did not appear drunk either before or after six October 18 murders in that community.

Testimony indicated that Simants was in the Rodeo Bar all afternoon of the day of the crime, then stopped by each of the town's two bars and drank one beer at each after the six members of the Henry Kellie family were killed.

Larry Sadle, part time bartender at the Rodeo, said Simants most definitely was not drunk at 6 p.m. — about two hours before the shootings were said to have occurred.

Jack Humphrey, owner of that bar, and Junior Eberly, part time bartender at the Longhorn Bar, both said Simants did not appear drunk when ordering a beer at each place shortly after the crime to which he has admitted.

"I believe he had a beer and probably left immediately," said Humphrey. "I don't believe he even sat down."

Dan Albrecht, a North Platte masonry contractor for whom Simants had worked intermittently as a laborer, said Simants got along well with fellow employees and "performed his work real well." But he said his work pattern was unsteady.

"He would work a couple weeks, then take his pay and go on a drunk for a week," said the contractor.

The defendant was characterized as a "model prisoner" since his Oct. 19 arrest by two jail attendants and Sheriff Gordon Gilster. The latter, a recall witness, also said he could see no evidence of a mental problem in Simants since he was jailed.

"He isn't one of those boisterous persons, but after he knows you pretty well, he'll sit down and carry on a conversation," the sheriff said.

Jail attendants William Hartnell and Albert McKain said the prisoner reads books and magazines and has written letters on occasion.

Dr. Steven Scott, director of the Pioneer Mental Health Clinic in Seward and a clinical psychologist, said in an evaluation of Simants last Sunday he found no evidence of "organic brain dysfunction." But under cross-examination, the psychologist acknowledged that he had not tested for schizophrenia or other mental illness not organically caused.

On the witness stand for about a half hour, Scott also indicated that the defendant probably knew right from wrong at the time of the Oct. 18 incident. He also said he detected some "memory disturbance" in the subject now.

Before resting its case

Wednesday, the defense characterized Simants as psychotic, mentally retarded and an alcoholic. Dr. Jack Anderson, a consulting Lincoln psychiatrist, and North Platte psychologist Dr. Sam Campanella backed that contention.

Only three other witnesses were called in behalf of the 30-year-old defendant.

Campanella was on the witness stand most of the day explaining a battery of tests he administered to Simants in three separate interviews earlier this month. Anderson said he saw the defendant for only 1½ hours last Sunday but made a diagnosis based partly upon Campanella's previous testing.

"In my opinion, within a reasonable degree of medical certainty, the defendant experienced an acute psychotic break," said Anderson of the Oct. 18 incident to which Simants has admitted.

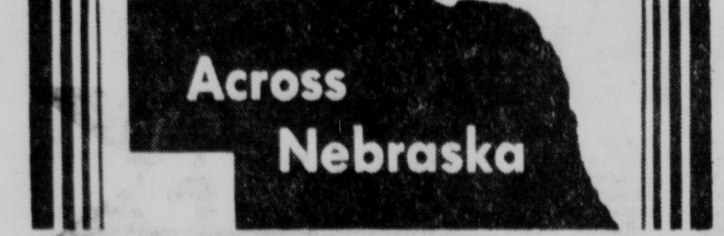

Anderson also testified that he felt Simants did not know what he was doing at the time of the incident, did not know right from wrong and was unaware that his acts could bring punishment. These are the three criteria previously referred to in the trial as constituting legal insanity.

Upon cross-examination, however, the consultant acknowledged that another psychiatrist might arrive at a "different conclusion" even using the same tests to which Simants was subjected.

Campanella said he believed Simants "was aware of what he was doing" when he committed the crimes. At one point he described the defendant as having "no emotion, no emotion whatsoever."

Campanella refused to agree with the prosecution that several, apparent concealment acts indicated Simants knew the difference between right and wrong among these were his covering of one body with a blanket, wiping up blood from the floor and turning out room lights after the shootings.

17 Media Firms Join Gag Rule Fight

Washington (UPI) — Major newspaper publishers and broadcasters told the Supreme Court Thursday that orders forbidding reporting of court action pose a greater threat to the nation than possible misconduct by the press.

Seventeen large news organizations, including the New York Times, NBC and CBS, urged the justices to overturn a court order which barred reporting of open court testimony, given at a pre-trial hearing, about a confession and other statements and evidence against a defendant in a sensational Nebraska murder case.

The high court has set the case for oral arguments some time this term. But it declined to lift the judge's order, which expired by its own terms when a jury was sequestered earlier this month in the murder trial of Erwin C. Simants in North Platte. Simants is on trial for allegedly slaying six persons while attempting a sexual assault.

Lincoln County District Judge Hugh Stuart ordered news media attending a preliminary hearing, which was open to the public, to suppress information about Simants' alleged confession and other actions pointing to possible guilt. He said the defendant's right to a fair trial would be jeopardized by such publicity.

National news media submitted a "friend of the court" brief Thursday asking that Stuart's decision be struck down as a violation of the Constitution's First Amendment guarantee of a free press.

Joining in the brief were the Philadelphia Inquirer and Daily News; the Chicago Sun-Times and Daily News; Dow Jones and Co., Publishers of the Wall Street Journal; Reader's Digest; the Public Broadcasting Service; Parade magazine; Harte-Hanks Newspapers, and several press organizations, including the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

The brief cited numerous cases and legal studies suggesting that publicity in sensational trials be minimized by imposing restraints on lawyers and judges, rather than on the media.

"It is, we submit, the hypothesis of the First Amendment that the press will, often enough, act at its probing, incisive, ubiquitous best," the brief said, "and that it will, often enough, expose wrongdoing and wrongdoers and that it must be free, without advance censorship, to print as it chooses..."

"It is also the hypothesis of the First Amendment that with all the potential for harm that must be acknowledged in a press as free as exists in this country, the greater risk is governmental misconduct — misconduct that only a press that is free is able to expose."

Neglected Class To Get Attention

Doors will open at the new Alta Bates Hospital Center for those in trouble at work or home because of drinking problems.

"Contrary to popular belief, less than 5% of the nation's alcoholics are found on skid row," said a spokesman for the institution.

By The Associated Press
Despite another drought over much of the state last summer, Nebraska farmers harvested bumper feed grain crops in 1975, according to a report released Thursday by the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

Nebraska's 1975 feed grain tonnage was up 34% over 1974, but was still 11% below the 1973 record. However, 1975 production was 15% above the 10-year average.

The 75 corn crop totaled 503.2 million bushels, a dramatic 30% increase over '74's drought-plagued harvest, but well below the record of 554.6 million bushels harvested in 1973.

The 1975 corn crop produced an average yield of 85 bushels per acre, up 17 bushels per acre from last year, but 19 bushels per acre below the record level of 1972, officials said.

Nebraska farmers harvested 4% more acres of feed grains in 1974 than they did in 1973, even though they planted 5% fewer acres. During the drought of 1974, many planted acres had to be abandoned or cut for silage. The state's dryland corn crop totaled 136 million bushels, almost double the 73.5 million harvested in 1974. The average dryland yield was pegged at 51 bushels per acre, up 23 bushels per acre from 1974.

The state's irrigated corn crop totaled 367.3 million bushels in 1975, compared 314.2 million bushels in 1974. The average yield was 113 bushels per acre, 10 bushels per acre above the 1974 yield average, but 11 bushels per acre below the 1972 record.

The report, the final such document on the 1975 feed grain crop, showed grain sorghum production at 103.4 million bushels, or 65% above the 1974 crop. However, it was still below the record harvest of 142.1 million bushels set back in 1966.

The sorghum average yield was 55 bushels per acre, compared with 33 bushels per acre in 1974. Sorghum acres harvested were down about 1% from 1974.

Soybean raisers harvested their second largest crop in the state's history. The 33.2 million bushel production figure came from a record 1.23 million acres harvested, and was 19% above the 1974 harvest.

Soybean yields averaged 27 bushels per acre

Hay production totaled 6.8 million tons in 1975, 6% above 1974. Acreage increased 5%, but the yield increased only slightly. Sugar beet producers harvested a record 1.8 million tons from a record 96,000 acres in 1975, a 29% increase from 1974.

Dry edible bean production totaled 1.9 million hundredweight, 12% below 1974. It was still the second largest crop on record.

A 118,000 acres of dry beans were harvested at an average of 1,600 pounds per acre. However, the 1975 yield was about 350 pounds per acre lower than the 1974 yield.

1975 U.S. Corn Crop Is Record

Washington (AP) — The nation's corn crop last year, a key ingredient for producing much of what consumers will eat in 1976, was a record of 5.77 billion bushels or 24% more than the drought-battered 1974 harvest, the Agriculture Department said Thursday.

As the leading U.S. livestock feed grain, the crop is important for producing meat, poultry and dairy products and as exports to other countries. The previous record was 5.65 billion bushels in 1973 before tumbling to less than 4.7 billion in 1974.

The new estimate was 37 million bushels below the previous USDA estimate of 5.8 billion bushels on Nov. 10 as the crop was being harvested.

Soybean production last year was 1.52 billion bushels, up 25% from 1974 but still short of the record of 1.55 billion bushels in 1973. Production dropped to 1.23 billion bushels in 1974. Soybeans provide vegetable oil and high-protein meal valuable as livestock feed.

The department's Crop Reporting Board said its "all-crops" production index for 1975 averaged a record of 122% of a 1967 base used as a standard, unchanged from last November. In 1974 it averaged 110%.

No new estimates of 1975 wheat production were included in Thursday's report. Earlier, USDA had estimated wheat output at a record 2.1 billion bushels, up 19% from the 1974 crop of 1.8 billion bushels, the previous record.

Other Legumes May Compete With Alfalfa On Great Plains

Alfalfa remains the queen of legume forages, but faces some potential competition under dryland conditions, speakers indicated at the annual meeting of the Nebraska Forage and Grassland Council here Thursday.

Purple prairie clover was among more than two dozen native legumes listed as having some promise by Ashley A. Thornburg, plant materials Midwest specialist for the Soil Conservation Service.

A new variety of purple prairie clover named Kaneb was released recently for use in the central Great Plains states. It can fix nitrogen in rangeland and is good forage for grazing animals.

Breeder seed stocks will be maintained by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Department of Horticulture, according to Dr. Sotero Salac, extension horticulturist.

Much more information must be developed on native legumes before specific recommendations can be made, Thornburg said.

Since alfalfa in pastures can pose bloat problems, and since other legumes will tolerate some soil conditions better than alfalfa, there is a renewed interest in other legumes, Dr. Lowell Moser, NU agronomist, said.

The energy crisis and high fertilizer prices have created the renewed interest in legumes, he said.

Hopefully, the problem of the alfalfa weevil can be solved through research, Dr. G.R. Mangtitz reported.

Mangtitz is a research entomologist for the USDA's Agricultural Research Service, stationed at UNL.

The devastation caused by the weevil in some eastern states has subsided in recent years, he said.

"If we correctly understand some of the reasons for the decline, perhaps we can speed it up in our area," he said.

Insect parasites appear to be at least partly responsible for the decline in the east where four or more different species are established, he said.

Efforts have been made to import as many parasite species into Nebraska as possible during the past several years, he said.

"While positive signs of establishment of the imported parasites have not been found in Nebraska to date, it is much too soon to become discouraged," Mangtitz said.

A cultural practice that seems to have some promise is to remove the first cutting of hay before the weevil larvae complete their development, he said.

$10 Million In Checks Put In Mail By ABP

Omaha (AP) — Checks totaling nearly $10 million have been mailed to livestock feeders owed money in connection with American Beef Packers Inc.'s Chapter 11 bankruptcy.

Joseph Skram, ABP president, said the amount represented 55% of that owed to feeders by the company.

"This payment is made according to the terms of the plan filed and confirmed by the court," Skram said.

According to the plan, subsequent payments are to be made over the next seven or eight years, with interest if possible.

B.H. "Bill" Jones, executive vice president of the National Livestock Feeders Association, expressed "a large measure of satisfaction and relief" at the announcement of the check mailing.

Jones, who served as a spokesman for the court-appointed creditors committee in ABP's limited bankruptcy, said, "Seeing these checks go out is rewarding culmination of a year's effort on the part of the association to help these people get their money, and in fact, it is a real milestone in the history of the livestock industry when you consider the amount of money owed and other conditions prevailing when American Beef went bankrupt."

However, Jones added, "We still have the job of getting federal legislation to prevent livestock producers from suffering similar injury in future packer failures."

Take Care; Warm Days Fool Plants

Lincoln residents have two choices with their flowers such as tulips and daffodils that bloom in spring and think spring is here because of this unseasonably warm weather.

"If the plant is already growing, I am afraid all you can do is dig it up and put it in a pot. Water it moderately and set it in an east or south window, but not in the direct sunlight. With luck you should get a bloom," said Dr. Sotero Salac of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Horticulture Department.

Salac said if the plants haven't started growing yet they should be covered with a good deep mulch of sawdust, wood chips, straw or some similar material to prevent their premature emergence.

Plants that are kept potted through the summer can be returned to the flower bed as bulbs in the fall and should function normally in the spring of 1977, he added.

Dr. Robert O'Keefe, NU horticulture and forestry professor, said he doubted that the warm spell would cause the fruit trees to break dormancy. "If it was late February or March, I would be concerned. We often get damage then from a frost after warm weather," he said.

1975 U.S. Corn Crop Is Record

Washington (AP) — The nation's corn crop last year, a key ingredient for producing much of what consumers will eat in 1976, was a record of 5.77 billion bushels or 24% more than the drought-battered 1974 harvest, the Agriculture Department said Thursday.

As the leading U.S. livestock feed grain, the crop is important for producing meat, poultry and dairy products and as exports to other countries. The previous record was 5.65 billion bushels in 1973 before tumbling to less than 4.7 billion in 1974.

The new estimate was 37 million bushels below the previous USDA estimate of 5.8 billion bushels on Nov. 10 as the crop was being harvested.

Soybean production last year was 1.52 billion bushels, up 25% from 1974 but still short of the record of 1.55 billion bushels in 1973. Production dropped to 1.23 billion bushels in 1974. Soybeans provide vegetable oil and high-protein meal valuable as livestock feed.

The department's Crop Reporting Board said its "all-crops" production index for 1975 averaged a record of 122% of a 1967 base used as a standard, unchanged from last November. In 1974 it averaged 110%.

No new estimates of 1975 wheat production were included in Thursday's report. Earlier, USDA had estimated wheat output at a record 2.1 billion bushels, up 19% from the 1974 crop of 1.8 billion bushels, the previous record.

Other Legumes May Compete With Alfalfa On Great Plains

Alfalfa remains the queen of legume forages, but faces some potential competition under dryland conditions, speakers indicated at the annual meeting of the Nebraska Forage and Grassland Council here Thursday.

Purple prairie clover was among more than two dozen native legumes listed as having some promise by Ashley A. Thornburg, plant materials Midwest specialist for the Soil Conservation Service.

A new variety of purple prairie clover named Kanab was released recently for use in the central Great Plains states. It can fix nitrogen in rangeland and is good forage for grazing animals.

Breeder seed stocks will be maintained by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Department of Horticulture, according to Dr. Sotero Salac, extension horticulturist.

Much more information must be developed on native legumes before specific recommendations can be made, Thornburg said.

Since alfalfa in pastures can pose bloat problems, and since other legumes will tolerate some soil conditions better than alfalfa, there is a renewed interest in other legumes, Dr. Lowell Moser, NU agronomist, said.

The energy crisis and high fertilizer prices have created the renewed interest in legumes, he said.

Hopefully, the problem of the alfalfa weevil can be solved through research, Dr. G.R. Manglitz reported.

Manglitz is a research entomologist for the USDA's Agricultural Research Service, stationed at UNL.

The devastation caused by the weevil in some eastern states has subsided in recent years, he said.

"If we correctly understand some of the reasons for the decline, perhaps we can speed it up in our area," he said.

Insect parasites appear to be at least partly responsible for the decline in the east wherever four or more different species are established, he said.

Efforts have been made to import as many parasite species into Nebraska as possible during the past several years, he said.

"While positive signs of establishment of the imported parasites have not been found in Nebraska to date, it is much too soon to become discouraged," Manglitz said.

A cultural practice that seems to have some promise is to remove the first cutting of hay before the weevil larvae complete their development, he said.

$10 Million In Checks Put In Mail By ABP

Omaha (AP) — Checks totaling nearly $10 million have been mailed to livestock feeders owed money in connection with American Beef Packers Inc.'s Chapter 11 bankruptcy.

Joseph Skram, ABP president, said the amount represented 55% of that owed to feeders by the company.

"This payment is made according to the terms of the plan filed and confirmed by the court," Skram said.

According to the plan, subsequent payments are to be made over the next seven or eight years, with interest if possible.

B. H. "Bill" Jones, executive vice president of the National Livestock Feeders Association, expressed "a large measure of satisfaction and relief" at the announcement of the check mailing.

Jones, who served as a spokesman for the court-appointed creditors committee in ABP's limited bankruptcy, said, "Seeing these checks go out is rewarding culmination of a year's effort on the part of the association to help these people get their money, and in fact, it is a real milestone in the history of the livestock industry when you consider the amount of money owed and other conditions prevailing when American Beef went bankrupt."

However, Jones added, "We still have the job of getting federal legislation to prevent livestock producers from suffering similar injury in future packer failures."

Take Care; Warm Days Fool Plants

Lincoln residents have two choices with their flowers such as tulips and daffodils that bloom in spring and think spring is here because of this unseasonably warm weather.

"If the plant is already growing, I am afraid all you can do is dig it up and put it in a pot. Water it moderately and set it in an east or south window, but not in the direct sunlight. With luck you should get a bloom," said Dr. Sotero Salac of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Horticulture Department.

Salac said if the plants haven't started growing yet they should be covered with a good deep mulch of sawdust, wood chips, straw or some similar material to prevent their premature emergence.

Plants that are kept potted through the summer can be returned to the flower bed as bulbs in the fall and should function normally in the spring of 1977, he added.

Dr. Robert O'Keefe, NU horticulture and forestry professor, said he doubted that the warm spell would cause the fruit trees to break dormancy. "If it was late February or March, I would be concerned. We often get damage then from a frost after warm weather," he said.

1888 Blizzard Club Schedules Saturday Meet

Disclaiming in advance any responsibility for the weather, the Jan. 12 1888 Blizzard Club announced that its postponed annual meeting will be held Saturday at the Lincoln Hilton.

Last year a blizzard forced a one-week delay which produced a veritable avalanche of chuckles and hints that the club should be held responsible for the storm, according to Doris Jenkins, club historian.

Although the club tries to schedule its meetings as close to the historical date as possible, scheduling conflicts by guest speaker Roger Welsch, not snow, caused this year's delay.

On the agenda for Saturday's meeting are a 10 a.m. registration and social hour, a noon luncheon and a 1 p.m. slide presentation by University of Nebraska English teacher Roger Welsch.

BRaille MARKERS ... aid for the blind.

Elevators To Be Marked For Blind

By GRACIA McANDREW
Star Staff Writer

Observant Lincoln citizens may, in the near future, see a new feature in many public elevators.

The new characteristic is hardly noticeable to the unpracticed eye. In fact, you really don't have to see it to appreciate it — it is intended for the sightless.

The 1½-inch metal strips, marked in Braille, are designed to enable the blind to read and correctly select elevator control buttons.

To date, the markers were only available at a high price from out-of-state suppliers. However, the local League of Human Dignity is planning to purchase equipment to manufacture the elevator control panel markers.

Steve Slaikeu, director of the league, said he hopes that local businesses will take advantage of the locally made markers, since the agency hopes to produce them at a price well below that charged by other manufacturers.

Sell At Cost

According to Slaikeu, each marker currently costs from $3 to $8, but he believes the league can sell them at cost, less than $2.

Although recent legislation requires the installation of Braille elevator markers in buildings constructed after Jan. 1, 1975, Slaikeu indicated that prohibitive costs have discouraged owners from putting them in older buildings.

One potential customer for the league markers is Skip O'Keefe of the O'Keefe Elevator Co. in Omaha.

"I told the people at the league six months ago that it is a shame every elevator couldn't have the markers," O'Keefe said. "Since we have to pay so much for them, we were just putting them in the new buildings."

Older Elevators Too

"Now, the lower price will allow elevators in older buildings to have them too," he said, adding his company expects an 80% to 90% savings by purchasing the markers from the league.

Noting that the new markers will make elevators more convenient for the blind in the community, John Smith, director of Services for the Visually Impaired, said the cheap markers were a long time coming.

The purchase of the equipment and the availability of the markers "indicates an acceptance of the fact that the blind are active, responsible citizens in the community," Smith said.

"As long as people of the community are not willing, ready or informed enough to know that blind people use these facilities, we are in the dark ages," he added, "because we use these buildings as much as everyone else."

'An Even Break'

"I'm tickled to death to see it happen. It gives us an even break and indicates that we are being accepted as first-class, full-fledged citizens."

Marjorie Moore, a blind teacher at Park Elementary School, said the markers not only will make the elevators easier to use, but also may provide psychological reinforcement for some blind people.

"For some who are easily discouraged, things like this cut down on their frustrations," she said, "so they might be willing to try more things."

Miss Moore added that use of the markers by blind people is important because it makes the community aware of the desire of the blind and the handicapped to "be a part of it."

The purchase of the equipment was made available through a $500 grant from State Federal Savings and Loan, which contributes to selected charities each year.

Presentation of the check was made Thursday morning by State Federal's president, Leonard Whittaker of Beatrice

Personal Interest

Although the decision to give the money to the league for the purchase of the equipment was made by the association's charitable contributions committee, Whittaker said, "In view of the fact that I have a personal interest in the blind, it pleased me that the committee made this selection."

Whittaker's daughter Nancy, a student at Nebraska Wesleyan University, was blinded in an automobile accident in 1973.

Describing the last two years as an "emotional tornado," Whittaker said his daughter has adjusted very well to her blindness.

"We are so proud of her," he said. "She, like most other blind people, despises pity. They want only to be treated like anyone else" and seek only the tools with which to make their own way in life.

"I am convinced that blindness is not understood by the general public," Whittaker said.

Federal Spokesman Kicks Buck Upstairs

The request was simple enough.

A Star photographer called the General Services Administration in the new Federal Building to find out if there are Braille markers on the elevator control panels in the building.

The woman he talked to said she would call him back with the information in a little while.

Two and one-half hours later she did return the call. "I'm sorry, I can't release that information," she said, explaining that the answer would have to come from some central office somewhere.

When told of the incident a reporter who has faced the bureaucratic tangle before asked rhetorically, "Where does the buck start?"

(Another reporter stopped in at the recently occupied Federal Building to resolve the problem. The answer to the question. There aren't.)

What do you say? Is weight-lifting beneficial to one's health? Are there any dangers? How does it compare with calisthenics such as push-ups, sit-ups, jogging and bicycling?

I've had so many different opinions. Maybe you can get the straight dope from someone who really knows.

Try Your Hand At Bidding

By B. JAY BECKER

You deal and open One Club. Partner responds Two Clubs. What would you bid now with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠ 9863 ♥ K95 ♦ AQ6 ♣ AJ8
2. ♠ KQ9 ♥ AQ4 ♦ AJ7 ♣ KJ83
3. ♠ AJ6 ♥ 10 ♦ K95 ♣ AQ9852
4. ♠ AQJ ♥ KQ8 ♦ A ♣ KQ7643

1. Pass. Hands with 14 points are mandatory opening bids. This principle applies even though it may be awkward to find a proper suit to open with. Here, for example, a three-card club suit is bid to start the ball rolling. Three-card suits are ordinarily unbidable, but when the choice lies between passing an opening bid and bidding a non-biddable suit, it is far better to bid.

When partner responds two clubs, showing 6 to 9 points, it is clear there is no game. Since partner guarantees four trumps for his raise, a part score contract in clubs becomes feasible. To bid again would express game aspirations that are simply not justified.

2. Three notrump. With 26 or more points accounted for and a notrump type of hand, three notrump is the standout rebid. It would be wrong to bid only two notrump; you might get left at the post. At the same time, a slam is out of the question once partner has limited his values by responding two clubs. You therefore follow the time-honored principle of bidding what you think you can make.

3. Three clubs. Although there are only 14 high-card points facing 6 to 9, the possibility of game should not be dismissed. The hand can be revalued on the basis of playing tricks, rather than points, for both notrump and suit purposes. Thus, you can view the hand as worth seven or eight tricks toward a notrump game.

In effect, three clubs tells partner that game is possible if he has top values for his club raise. Partner will pass three clubs more often than not, but only rarely will anything be lost by trying for game.

4. Four notrump. A slam is decidedly possible, and the key to whether it can be made lies in the number of aces partner has. This is a classic case for Blackwood.

If partner has no aces, he responds five clubs, which you pass. If he has one ace, he bids five diamonds, which you convert to six clubs. The slam may be laydown, or at worst depend on a finesse. If partner has two aces, he bids five hearts and you stop at six clubs, since partner cannot also have the king of spades for his two club bid.

LTS OKs Contract With Firm To Manage Bus Line

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer
Lincoln bus planners agreed Thursday to pay an Ohio management firm $83,000 a year to run the Lincoln Transportation System.

The LTS Board approved a contract with ATE Management and Service Co. of Cincinnati to supervise the city-owned bus system for $6,916 a month. For the next three years the company will provide a full time manager and director of operations planning, who will be charged with the day to day running of LTS. The LTS Board will interview the manager sent from ATE and can reject the person, finance Director Jim Mallon said.

For that monthly check, the company will supervise transportation planning and operations, equipment selection, routes, schedules, fare structures, budgeting, employee training and labor relations. The company also will give additional assistance from its home office "as may be reasonably required," City Atty. Charles Humble said. However, any special projects will cost additional money. Board members have estimated that about $30,000 each year goes strictly for a management fee, with the remaining money going for salaries.

One small hurdle yet to be faced is City Council passage of an ordinance allowing LTS to hire a management company. There was some confusion Thursday among board members as to whether that ordinance was even needed. Humble said LTS really didn't need it, but then said the board should have the legislation. Several months ago the City Council almost approved the proposal. But, for reasons still unclear to Humble and most council members, the proposal was killed.

Humble said he has no doubt that the lawmakers will routinely approve the legislation when it is reintroduced. Exactly when the new company will take over the management reins is not yet known, Mallon said, since some more paperwork needs to be finished. Last fall the LTS Board decided to hire an outside firm to run the system mainly because they haven't been satisfied with LTS's two previous managers. Both resigned.

Additionally, the city hasn't received what the board believes to be qualified applicants for the manager's job.

Sources have told The Star that one reason no exceptional applicants are interested in Lincoln is because of the unusual set-up of the bus company. The system is operated by the Finance Department not a separate department of transportation, as in other cities. Lincoln doesn't have such a department, although several councilmen have talked about creating one.

In other business the LTS Board authorized minor changes in the downtown minibus route. The minibus will travel south on 11th St. to H, turn west on H and travel north on 10th St. That amounts to a one block extension of the route.

Records also show that LTS lost $53,321 during the month of December. Operating revenues were $59,142 while expenses totaled $112,463. On Monday the City Council submitted an application to obtain federal funds to help pay for those operating deficits.

Rites Set Monday For John Dean

Services will be at 10 a.m. Monday at St. Mary's Catholic Church for John Dean, president of one of Nebraska's largest financial institutions, who died Thursday morning at St. Elizabeth Health Center. He was 57.

Dean had worked for First Federal Savings and Loan Association since 1948. He was elected vice president and general consul for the firm in 1950 and executive vice president in 1972. He became president in 1974.

Dean, a practicing attorney, originated The Money Service (TMS), an electronic money transfer technique that is now used internationally.

First Federal was one of the nation's leading savings and loan associations in 1975, ranking 81st in assets with $477 million and 93rd in savings capital with $354.1 million. It ranked second in Nebraska in assets.

John Dean

The firm has headquarters in downtown Lincoln and additional offices in Omaha, Fair-bury, Crete, Ord, Kearney, Grand Island and Alliance.

Dean was born in Lincoln in 1918 and graduated from Creighton University law school in 1948. He was a captain in the U.S. Marine Corps from 1942-46.

He was a member of the American Bar Association, the Nebraska Bar Association, the Federal Bar Association, the American Trial Lawyers Association, the funds transfer committee of the League of Savings Association and Cathedral of the Risen Christ.

Dean served on the Legislative Committee of the United States Savings and Loan League.

Survivors include his widow, Rean; son, John; daughter, Mary Yost of Omaha; and brothers, Dr. G. W. Dean of Lincoln and Richard E. Dean of Sullivan, Ill.

Parking Jam May Soon Ease

Basketball fans and concert goers who are tired of looking for parking places near Pershing Municipal Auditorium may be relieved to know that help is on the way.

Auditorium manager Ike Hoig announced at the auditorium advisory committee meeting Thursday that negotiations for evening use of part of the Federal Building parking garage are in their final stages.

At present, Hoig said he is waiting for a General Services Administration sample contract that can be negotiated locally each time a major evening event is scheduled at the auditorium. Two-hundred parking stalls will be made available to Pershing patrons during such events, Hoig said.

The auditorium will collect $1 per car parked in the garage. The federal government will get 20c out of each dollar.

Parking lot attendants will be supplied by the auditorium.

During the meeting, committee members also heard a report from Ken Nelson representing Dana Cole & Co. accounting firm.

The report, which compared Pershing's financial situation with that of municipal auditoriums in five other cities, indicates that "maybe we haven't done as badly here as we sometimes think," Nelson said.

Pershing recorded a $57,474 deficit during fiscal year 1974-75. Of the other cities in the report, four were also in the red (Wichita, Kan. $21,851; Tulsa, Okla. $16,835; Rochester, Minn. $87,958; Des Moines, Iowa, $21,142).

The only city recording a profit was Sioux Falls, S.D. which the report showed to have had $22,347 net income during 1974.

However, Nelson said that he wouldn't rely on the Sioux Falls figure because the information was "incomplete."

Nelson also pointed out that Wichita and Des Moines annually take in a considerable amount of revenue for parking ($138,850 and $147,541, respectively) — a source of income Pershing has not had in the past.

LTS OKs Contract With Firm To Manage Bus Line

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln bus planners agreed Thursday to pay an Ohio management firm $83,000 a year to run the Lincoln Transportation System.

The LTS Board approved a contract with ATE Management and Service Co. of Cincinnati to supervise the city-owned bus system for $6,916 a month.

For the next three years the company will provide a full time manager and director of operations planning, who will be charged with the day to day running of LTS.

The LTS Board will interview the manager sent from ATE and can reject the person, finance Director Jim Mallon said.

For that monthly check, the company will supervise transportation planning and operations, equipment selection, routes, schedules, fare structures, budgeting, employee training and labor relations.

The company also will give additional assistance from its home office "as may be reasonably required," City Atty. Charles Humble said. However, any special projects will cost additional money.

Board members have estimated that about $30,000 each year goes strictly for a management fee, with the remaining money going for salaries.

One small hurdle yet to be faced is City Council passage of an ordinance allowing LTS to hire a management company.

There was some confusion Thursday among board members as to whether that ordinance was even needed.

Humble said LTS really didn't need it, but then said the board should have the legislation.

Several months ago the City Council almost approved the proposal. But, for reasons still unclear to Humble and most council members, the proposal was killed.

Humble said he has no doubt that the lawmakers will routinely approve the legislation when it is reintroduced.

Exactly when the new company will take over the management reins is not yet known, Mallon said, since some more paperwork needs to be finished.

Last fall the LTS Board decided to hire an outside firm to run the system mainly because they haven't been satisfied with LTS's two previous managers. Both resigned.

Additionally, the city hasn't received what the board believes to be qualified applicants for the manager's job.

Sources have told The Star that one reason no exceptional applicants are interested in Lincoln is because of the unusual set-up of the bus company.

The system is operated by the Finance Department not a separate department of transportation, as in other cities. Lincoln doesn't have such a department, although several councilmen have talked about creating one.

In other business the LTS Board authorized minor changes in the downtown minibus route. The minibus will travel south on 11th St. to H, turn west on H and travel north on 10th St. That amounts to a one block extension of the route.

Records also show that LTS lost $53,321 during the month of December. Operating revenues were $59,142 while expenses totaled $112,463. On Monday the City Council submitted an application to obtain federal funds to help pay for those operating deficits.

Unlicensed Homes Still In Business

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

"Can an unlicensed nursing home facility procrastinate forever?" asked members of the State Nursing Home Advisory Council Thursday.

"I'm getting so disgusted," said Mrs. Maxine Morrison, liaison member to the group from the State Health Board, as the advisory council discussed three facilities which have been unlicensed for years.

The facilities are the Omaha Education Association Manor in Omaha, Gateway Manor and Westview Home, both in Lincoln.

All three facilities do not meet fire code requirements for nursing home facilities.

The Omaha Manor, which has one floor converted to long-term nursing care, has been operating without a license since at least 1960, according to Star newspaper clippings.

The home presented plans for a new nursing home facility last January with a further review of the plans in March. "We've heard nothing from them since," said Joe Hageman of the State Health Department standards and licensing division.

The license for Gateway Manor, 225 N. 56th, was revoked in 1970. In 1974 the manor was offered the option of being licensed as a room and board facility, Hageman said.

Gateway Manor could meet fire code and licensing requirements for this type of facility, but the management never returned the application, Hageman said.

Westview Home, in rural Lincoln, operated by Lancaster County, was refused any fire code because of type of problems in October 1975, Hageman reported. The facility has never been licensed.

Continuation of the home, which cares for more than 30 indigent residents, is now under study by the Lancaster County Board.

Two years ago the advisory council asked that legal action be taken to close down both Gateway and Westview. But the facilities continue to operate.

Current statutes require that the health departments turn to county attorneys to take legal action when a facility is operating without a license, Hageman explained. If there is no action at this level, the case can be referred to the attorney general, he said.

Any legal proceedings are lengthy. The last case which went to court (involving a Lincoln home) took 18 months for a decision, he said.

The advisory group asked that a complete report on what action could be taken against the three homes be given at its next meeting in April.

Trio Held In Stanards Robbery

Three Lincoln men are in custody pending charges of robbery following the strong-arm holdup of Stanards IGA, 13th and K, early Thursday morning.

The trio was picked up a few blocks from the store moments after the robbery, police said. They had been checked by officers earlier in the evening as part of a routine patrol, they added.

Unlicensed Homes Still In Business

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

"Can an unlicensed nursing home facility procrastinate forever?" asked members of the State Nursing Home Advisory Council Thursday.

"I'm getting so disgusted," said Mrs. Maxine Morrison, liaison member to the group from the State Health Board, as the advisory council discussed three facilities which have been unlicensed for years.

The facilities are the Omaha Education Association Manor in Omaha, Gateway Manor and Westview Home, both in Lincoln.

All three facilities do not meet fire code requirements for nursing home facilities.

The Omaha manor, which has one floor converted to long-term nursing care, has been operating without a license since at least 1960, according to Star newspaper clippings.

The home presented plans for a new nursing home facility last January with a further review of the plans in March. "We've heard nothing from them since," said Joe Hageman of the State Health Department standards and licensing division.

The license for Gateway Manor, 225 N. 56th, was revoked in 1970. In 1974 the manor was offered the option of being licensed as a room and board facility, Hageman said.

Gateway Manor could meet fire code and licensing requirements for this type of facility, but the management never returned the application, Hageman said.

Westview Home, in rural Lincoln, operated by Lancaster County, was refused any type of license because of fire code problems in October 1975, Hageman reported. The facility has never been licensed.

Continuation of the home, which cares for more than 30 indigent residents, is now under

Still In Business

study by the Lancaster County Board.

Two years ago the advisory council asked that legal action be taken to close down both Gateway and Westview. But the facilities continue to operate.

Current statutes require that the health departments turn to county attorneys to take legal action when a facility is operating without a license, Hageman explained. If there is no action at this level, the case can be referred to the attorney general, he said.

And any legal proceedings are lengthy. The last case which went to court (involving a Lincoln home) took 18 months for a decision, he said.

The advisory group asked that a complete report on what action could be taken against the three homes be given at its next meeting in April.

Trio Held In Stanards Robbery

Three Lincoln men are in custody pending charges of robbery following the strong-arm holdup of Stanards IGA, 13th and K, early Thursday morning.

The trio was picked up a few blocks from the store moments after the robbery, police said. They had been checked by officers earlier in the evening as part of a routine patrol, they added.

An undetermined amount of cash, mostly in $1 bills, was taken, police said.

Denial Of Malpractice Judgment Reversed

By The Associated Press
The Nebraska Supreme Court Thursday reversed a decision which denied a malpractice judgment against a doctor who told a patient Friday night to see him Monday morning.

The Supreme Court ordered a new trial for the malpractice case filed in Douglas County District Court against Dr. Colin Schack

The case was filed by Ronald Kaspar after the death of his wife, Mary Ann

The Supreme Court said the district court wrongly forced Kaspar to prove that his wife was not guilty of contributory negligence

The high court said it was up to Dr. Schack to prove that contributory negligence existed

In other rulings Thursday, the court

- Upheld the Lancaster County District Court conviction of Norman L. Hoffman
- Hoffman was convicted of keeping a room for gambling and being a common gambler
- Upheld the Hall County District Court conviction of Ted A. Keller
- Reversed a Dodge County District

Court decision granting workmen's compensation to Morris Raymond — Upheld a Douglas County District Court decision holding the Mutual Service Casualty Insurance Company liable for a wreck involving Cindy Miltender. The insurance company had claimed the policy had been canceled — Reversed the property settlement in the Hall County District Court divorce of LaDonna and Walter Henschel — Upheld the Sarpy County District Court decision denying the George P. Rose Siding & Grading Co. compensation for work performed for Joseph Den — Upheld the Sarpy County District Court decision holding Morris Herz liable for $8,956 for cattle purchased for Gerald Timmerman

Court: State Not Automatic Owner Of Land

The Nebraska Supreme Court said Thursday that the state does not automatically take title to land owned by aliens in the state.

The Supreme Court said the state does not get the land unless the county attorney files a suit to take the title

The high court upheld a decision of the Box Butte County District Court which gave the heirs of Sidney Fielden Wilson one year to sell a quarter section of land

Wilson's heirs are English. The state appealed the case to the Supreme Court, saying the state should have title to the land automatically because Wilson was English and foreigners are prohibited by law from owning land in Nebraska

MIDNIGHT SHOW "2001 A SPACE ODYSSEY"

Court: State Not Automatic Owner Of Land

The Nebraska Supreme Court said Thursday that the state does not automatically take title to land owned by aliens in the state.

The Supreme Court said the state does not get the land unless the county attorney files a suit to take the title.

The high court upheld a decision of the Box Butte County District Court which gave the heirs of Sidney Fielden Wilson one year to sell a quarter section of land.

Wilson's heirs are English. The state appealed the case to the Supreme Court, saying the state should have title to the land automatically because Wilson was English and foreigners are prohibited by law from owning land in Nebraska.

PART 2 WALKING TALL

WEEKDAYS AT 7:00 & 8:50 SAT & SUN at 1, 3, 5, 7, 9:00

The case was filed by Ronald Kaspar after the death of his wife, Mary Ann.

The Supreme Court said the district court wrongly forced Kaspar to prove that his wife was not guilty of contributory negligence.

The high court said it was up to Dr. Schack to prove that contributory negligence existed.

In other rulings Thursday, the court:

- Upheld the Lancaster County District Court gambling conviction of Norman L. Hoffman.
- Hoffman was convicted of keeping a room for gambling and being a common gambler.
- Upheld the Hall County District Court burglary conviction of Ted A. Keller.
- Reversed a Dodge County District Court decision granting workmen's compensation to Morris Raymond.
- Upheld a Douglas County District Court decision holding the Mutual Service Casualty Insurance Company liable for a wreck involving Cindy Mittleider. The insurance company had claimed the policy had been canceled.
- Revised the property settlement in the Hall County District Court divorce of LaDonna and Walter Hanisch.
- Upheld the Sarpy County District Court decision denying the George P. Rose Sadding and Grading Co. compensation for work performed for Joseph Denig.
- Upheld the Sarpy County District Court decision holding Morris Hertz liable for $8,956 for cattle purchased for Gerald Timmerman.

Trade Soars In Buying, Selling Flood

NEW YORK (AP) — Trading soared to a record level in the stock market Thursday in a full-speed collision of buying and profit taking forces.

With all the excitement, however, stock prices never really established a trend, and wound up mixed at the close.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks emerged with a 5.12 loss at 924.51.

Gainers and losers ran almost dead even on the New York Stock Exchange, with 767 issues advancing and 751 declining among the 1,920 traded.

Big Board volume totaled 38.45 million shares, easily outstripping the last record of 35.16 million set last Feb. 13.

It was the fourth straight 30 million-share day at the exchange, and the weekly volume record of 145.68 million shares, established in late January, 1975, appeared to be in for a challenge before the market closes Friday.

Futures Drop After Brisk Upward Spurt

Chicago (AP) — Commodity futures prices, except for soybeans, dropped somewhat on the Chicago Board of Trade Thursday after a brisk initial upward spurt.

Sources said the decisive factor in the decline appeared to be the sale of 700 May soybean oil contracts by a major commercial traders. They said the retreat in prices spread to other commodities.

Wheat climbed by 3 1/2 cents at the opening and then progressively dropped into the loss column. Corn posted a few slight gains then also began to fall back. Oats finished mixed.

Soybeans finished down half a cent a bushel to unchanged in the near contracts but climbed 1/2 to 1 1/2 cents in the deferred contracts.

Gold was unchanged to lower.

Futures Drop After Brisk Upward Spurt

Chicago (AP) — Commodity futures prices, except for soybeans, dropped somewhat on the Chicago Board of Trade Thursday after a brisk initial upward spurt.

Sources said the decisive factor in the decline appeared to be the sale of 700 May soybean oil contracts by a major commercial traders. They said the retreat in prices spread to other commodities.

Wheat climbed by 3 1/2 cents at the opening and then progressively dropped into the loss column. Corn posted a few slight gains then also began to fall back. Oats finished mixed.

Soybeans finished down half a cent a bushel to unchanged in the near contracts but climbed 1/2 to 1 1/2 cents in the deferred contracts.

Gold was unchanged to lower.

OB Turf To See Last Tilt

MIAMI (AP) — Sunday's Super Bowl showdown between the Dallas Cowboys and Pittsburgh Steelers will be the last game to be played on the tattered and torn Polyturf carpet at the Orange Bowl.

The Miami City Council voted this week to install a new surface for next season. The substance is something called grass.

That means the slippery Polyturf gets its last going-over from the Cowboys and Steelers, who will take their first look at the field Saturday. When they look at it, what they see won't be pretty, according to Nat Moore, wide receiver of the Miami Dolphins.

Moore toured the field with a newsman this week and pointed out the potholes. "There are bumps and rips and patches and dropoffs and seams that have worn through to the concrete," said Moore. "There's no grain and the turf is matted."

All of that explains why the city council is ripping the fake stuff out. And it comes as no surprise to Drew Pearson, the Dallas wide receiver who traversed the Orange Bowl rug in last year's Pro Bowl game.

"Moore's right," Pearson said Thursday. "That field will be slippery and that will be trouble."

It's a good thing Pearson didn't have to try running his patterns on Thursday. There were intermittent showers throughout the day. But the official forecast for Sunday is for sunny skies, temperatures in the 60s and northerly winds of 15 to 20 miles an hour.

Pittsburgh's Lynn Swann, a wide receiver who like Pearson needs a solid surface to do his thing, was unconcerned with Moore's criticism of the Orange Bowl.

"That's nothing new," said Swann. "I've played on some fields—they look nice and green and then you get out there. All they do is paint over the bare spots so they don't show. You make a cut and all you've got under you is green paint and dirt."

Both Swann and Pearson would rather run on grass.

"Anytime," said Pearson. "It's just a better surface to play on, that's all."

Ironically, both the Steelers and Cowboys play their home games on artificial surfaces composed of Tartan turf. A new carpet of the same substance is on order for Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium, where year-round usage by the Steelers and the Pittsburgh Pirates has worn the carpet thin.

Title Chance To Syracuse

Auburn — Syracuse won the right Thursday night to meet Plattsmouth Friday night for the championship of the Twin Rivers Conference Tournament with a 74-55 victory over Blair.

Nebraska City claimed fifth place beating Auburn 65-42 while in girls' semifinal action Blair downed Auburn 49-17 and Syracuse topped Fairbury 38-18.

NCAA To Reject Aid Proposal?

Trial Run For 'Need'

St. Louis — Financial aid on the basis of the individual student-athlete's need appears very unlikely to be approved Friday when the 70th NCAA Convention begins voting on proposed legislation.

In the face of this probable defeat, a new proposal will be offered by the Big Ten Conference that a trial run be made during the next academic year to determine what savings, if any, can be made if 'need' becomes the rule for scholarship money.

Marcus Plant, faculty representative at Michigan, said Thursday he would introduce the proposal which would require parents of all incoming freshman recruits to fill out a financial aid application form.

While the athletes would still be receiving the financial aid currently approved by the NCAA, the information gained would be fed into a computer and provide information to each school on just how much money could be saved if the plan eventually is adopted.

One Big Ten school, Northwestern, already has instituted a 'need' plan for all sports other than football and basketball and athletic director John Pont said it not only is saving money, but it is permitting those non-revenue-producing sports coaches to fill their rosters with quality athletes.

Because the Big Ten experimented with need several years ago and failed because the rest of the nation's schools didn't follow suit, there has been a negative feeling nationally about such proposals ever since. It might be the answer to the economic crunch.

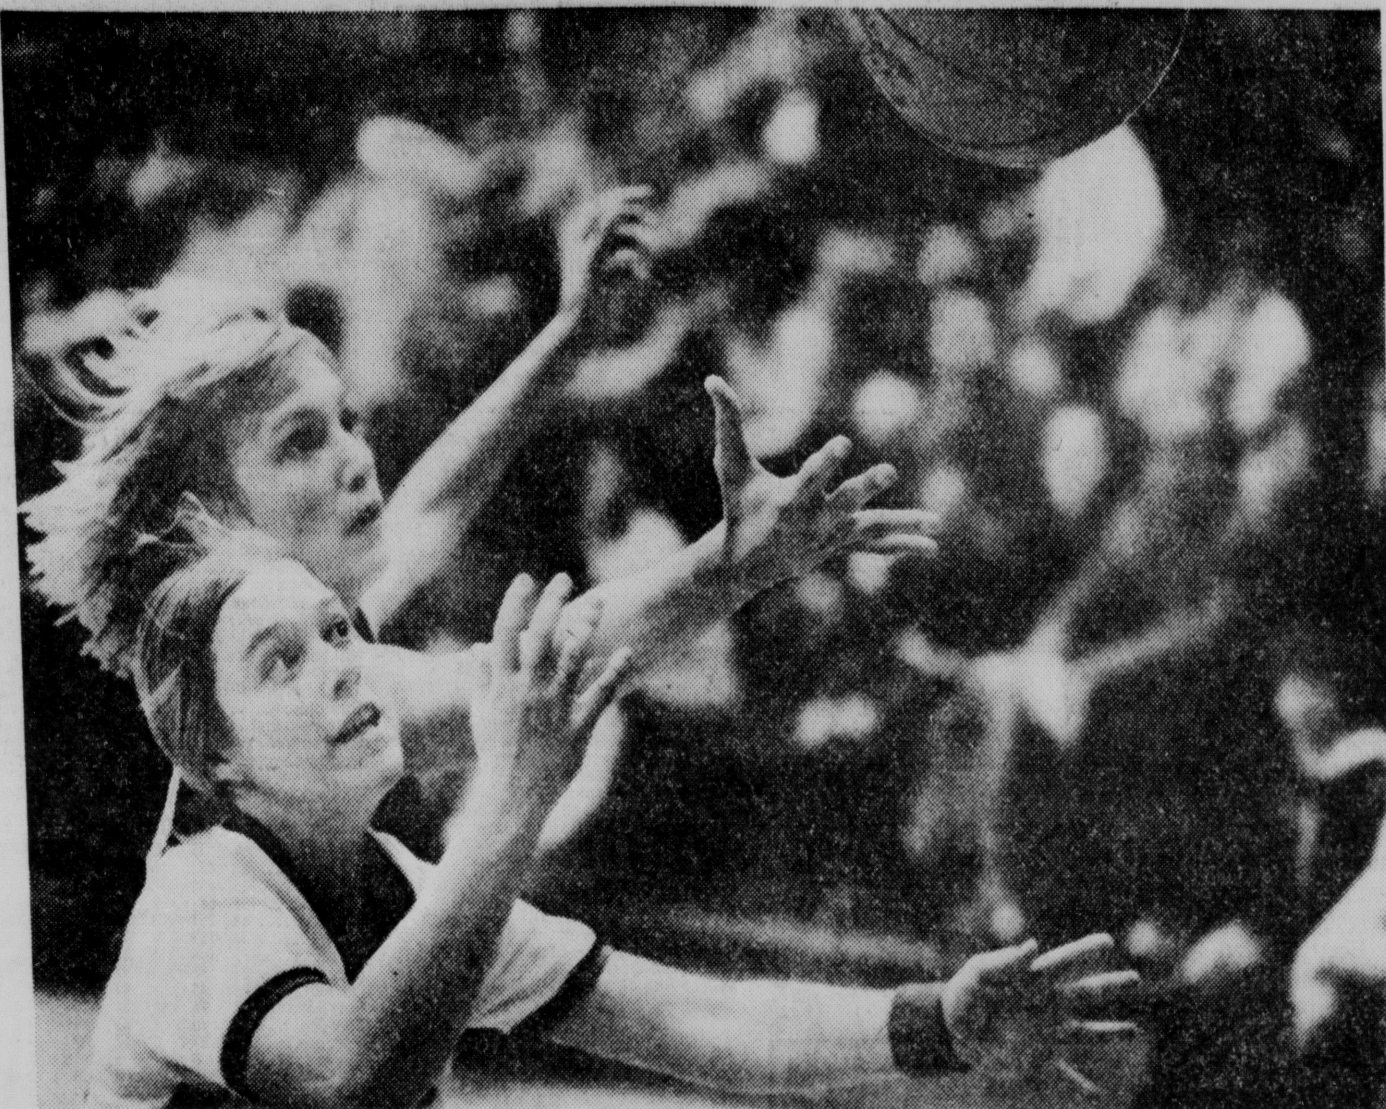

Today's 'Emancipated' Youth

Nebraska faculty representative Keith Broman, however, is one who doesn't think 'need' can work. He believes the nation's youth today are 'emancipated' just enough that they will go to all ends to make it fail.

He feels parents, as well, won't let it work. For example a father making $20,000 or any figure you want to name, would be more than willing to sacrifice an income tax deduction for a $20,000 education for his son-athlete.

Some of the criteria that would be used in determining how much a parent can pay for his son's education would be:

1. Does the parent claim the son as a dependent?
2. Has he lived at home during the summer in the previous

'Poor Efforts' Propel East

By CHUCK SINCLAIR
Prep Sports Writer

Lincoln East girls basketball coach Leona Penner credits two poor showings and a confidence builder for her Spartans' 41-27 triumph over Lincoln High at Johnson Gym Thursday night.

Despite owning a 5-0 mark entering the battle of two unbeaten, according to Penner, her Spartans had played poorly in two of three previous wins.

"We started during the tournament with Northeast and didn't play very well," Penner said of the holiday tourney finals. "And then we played just horrible against Beatrice last week."

Then came the confidence builder, Tuesday night against Grand Island, as the Spartans crushed the Islanders, 60-25 at home.

"That game really helped us gain our confidence back," Penner noted. "So coming into tonight's game, we weren't really as nervous as we were in the Northeast game, despite Lincoln High's record."

their segment of the Eastern 1-80 Holiday tourney.

Despite not being nervous, the Spartans were slow out of the blocks, as was Lincoln High.

Neither team converted a field goal attempt until Kerry Karst put East on top 2-1 with an eight-footer with five minutes left in the first quarter.

"We're always slow getting started, at least we have been lately," said Penner. "So I really don't worry too much about it early."

After leading the Links by just one, 8-7 at the quarter, Karst and Anne Heermann combined for 12 of the next 13 points and the Spartans began to break the game open with the aid of icy Lincoln High shooting.

Lincoln High went from the :55 mark in the first quarter to the 3:42 mark in the third stanza without a field goal, missing 18 straight attempts before Deb Van Dusen drilled a 12-footer as East opened a 25-10 lead.

Lincoln High made somewhat of a comeback effort with the aid of a fourth quarter full-court press forcing eight turnovers. But the closest the Links could come was 12 points, 35-23, with 6:00 left in the game.

"It's really nice to have a game like that under our belts," Penner said. "What did we win by? Fourteen points? In a game like this, you feel like 14 points is two points."

For East, the win was the sixth without a loss this year, and the 13th in a row stretching back to a loss against Ralston in the fifth game of the season last year.

"I'm glad I didn't know it was the 13th," Penner joked. "We're really happy about this one. We want to look good winning and not just win. We want to win with style."

Karst and Heermann led East scoring with 14 and 12 points, respectively while Van Dusen dumped in 10 for Lincoln High.

Both teams are idle until next Thursday when Ralston travels to 6-0 Lincoln East and Lincoln High, 7-1, visits Millard, both I-80 Conference foes.

LSE Romps Past Millard

Lincoln Southeast charged out to a commanding 34-4 halftime lead and coasted to an easy 55-42 victory over Millard in I-80 Conference girls' basketball action.

JoAnn Griffin scored all of her 11 points and Kelly O'Neal connected for eight of her game-high 19 in the first half.

Millard suffered through a miserable one for 27 field goal shooting effort in the first half. The Indians finished at 24 per cent hitting 11 of 46. Southeast ended with 34 per cent shooting making 21 of 61 shots.

Griffin dominated the boards for LSE grabbing 18 rebounds with Suzanne Sutton and Pam Van Nest each getting nine.

Southeast, now 4-2, next travels to Papillion Thursday.

St. Louis — The moment of truth will arrive Friday morning when delegates to the 70th NCAA Convention begin voting on a myriad of proposals ranging from consideration of creating a division of 'super' football powers to coaching staff limits, recruiting restrictions, and a possible national championship football playoff.

It has been almost impossible to take a pulse of the delegates because there are so many and such varying problems and viewpoints.

About the only certain result is a defeat of a playoff for Division I football teams. Too many other decisions depend on what happens in the attempt at reorganization.

It became apparent after Thursday's meetings that a plan to base athletic scholarships on need will be delayed at least a year while a study is undertaken on how it would save money. (See Sports Signals).

Despite a sincere and well-studied summation of the football playoff for Division I, Big Eight Commissioner Chuck Neinas was confident the proposal won't pass.

The Big Eight and a lot of other major conferences oppose a playoff — not because of a playoff, per se, but because it is felt the proposal isn't believed to be feasible.

"We'll get a playoff, but it won't happen until the NCAA takes over the selection process for bowl teams," Neinas said.

The playoff plan to be voted on Friday calls for no interference in the present 11 major bowls, but has a football committee which would pick four teams from among bowl game winners to play for the championship the first two weekends in January.

Reorganization, if approved, would create the possibility of a Division IA playoff, still leaving Division I football as the only sport in which the NCAA doesn't sponsor a national championship tournament.

"If we form IA, that division will be given assurances the NCAA will establish a championship playoff if they desire to Eager, but not overzealous. That's the approach Lincoln Southeast basketball coach Wally McNaught is preaching for his fourth-rated Knights' Friday night invasion of third-rated Grand Island.

"We're looking forward to the game for a lot of reasons," says McNaught. "It's a chance at an 8-0 team and it's a big game in the Trans-Nebraska."

"But," he adds, "we're also keeping it in perspective. It's a mid-season game. We don't view it as a pivotal point or a must game which will make or break our season. We don't want to be tensed up."

"Win or lose," says McNaught, "we want to grow and gain from it."

McNaught isn't concerned that 6-7 senior center Dave Griffin is merely matching last season's 18-point scoring average.

"I told Dave last year I hoped he could maintain his average and improve in the other phases of the game to become a complete player," McNaught says.

"Our goal was for him to get as strong as his capabilities will allow," adds McNaught. "He needed to improve his offensive rebounding, his defensive rebounding and his defensive post play. The scoring is important, but these other things are more important."

Team Concept

The purpose, according to McNaught, "is to build our offense and our defense around the team concept. We want to maximize our team talents to make it difficult for the opponent to cheat on us."

Three other facts help explain why Griffin's scoring average hasn't climbed into the 20's.

"Last year," McNaught points out, "David was able to sneak up on people. This year, he can't. Every week, the opponent is have one," Seaver Peters of Dartmouth College said. He's on the NCAA's television committee. "And we'll negotiate the TV contract with ABC to get the IA championship games on television, just like we've done for Divisions II and III."

Ernie Casale of Temple, whose committee proposed the Division I playoff, answered critics of the plan Thursday. Those criticisms involved mostly the possible interference with the academic calendar and disruption of the present bowl structure.

"I'm as concerned about the academic calendar as you are — I still teach," Casale told the Division I delegates. "But our committee did a survey of Division I schools and found that no schools are in examinations during the first eight days of January and no more than five are in session through Jan. 4 and most of those are in registration."

Casale noted that football players possibly miss fewer classes than most athletes in other sports.

"It is our firm belief a playoff won't interfere with the bowls and won't take away from the glamour of the bowls," he said.

"In fact, it might help the bowls. The important thing is we think it's good for football and the NCAA."

Casale said the NCAA's assessment from TV rights would be used to pay athletes from all three divisions for travel to other NCAA championship sports events.

Hudson Hikes Pin Advantage

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Tommy Hudson led Earl Anthony by 116 pins as 24 semifinalists entered match play Thursday night in the $100,000 Showboat Invitational Bowling Tournament.

Hudson, Akron, Ohio, increased his lead over Anthony, Tacoma, Wash., by two pins as he brought his 32-game total pinfall to 6966, a 217 average. Anthony was at 6850.

In other convention news:

—The NCAA Council called on delegates to work for greater control of legal challenges against NCAA rules. J. Neils Thompson, faculty representative of Texas, said there has been only one significant decision against the NCAA and the association had spent $351,511 for legal fees during the last year alone.

—Three resolutions were proposed by Dr. Edward Beitz of the University of the Pacific concerning women in athletics. (1) extend NCAA constitutional provisions and eligibility rules regarding national championships to all women athletes in 1977; (2) NCAA will not provide women's championships prior to the 1977-78 academic year; (3) establish permanent committee to deal with the NCAA in women's athletics.

The Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women sent a statement to the convention calling for a defeat of the eligibility proposal, but supporting the other two issues.

—Cecil Coleman, athletic director at Illinois and chairman of the committee to combat legalized gambling, said the NCAA is opposed to legislation "because our crowds are people who come to games because they are loyal and have an interest in the game."

—The commissioner of the Big Eight Conference, Charles M. Neinas, said his delegates will withdraw a proposal to move reorganization to the front of Friday's business.

Neinas emphasized, however, that the move does "not necessarily" jeopardize reorganization, considered to be the convention's key topic.

We'll stop Griffin. . .

Adjusting to a complete new cast of teammates is another major change. "Even though David spent all summer and part of the fall playing with new people," McNaught notes, "it still takes time to learn new moves and feel each other out." Thirdly, Griffin has good stamina, but his strength prevents him from being a domineering player.

McNaught isn't trying to cover up some of Griffin's problems this season. "It's an intangible," he says. "He's run into some problems with a zone, for instance."

Against Philosophy

"But he still went through December shooting 50%. He didn't bust out and have any 25 or 30-point games. He had the opportunity, but it's not our philosophy."

McNaught was pleased with Griffin's performance last weekend. He had 17 points and 13 rebounds in a lopsided win over Lincoln High and 22 points, 16 rebounds and 4 blocked shots in an overtime win at Omaha North.

"Perhaps the best part of last weekend," says McNaught, "is that both teams played a zone against us. We're showing signs of coping with a zone better."

The weekend's most crucial game in Lincoln matches eighth-rated Northeast (5-2) against 10th-rated Lincoln High (4-4) at Pershing Auditorium Friday night.

It will be shown on a delayed basis on Cablevision on channel 9, starting at 11 p.m. with Prep Panorama, featuring an interview with Northeast athletic director Max Hester.

Lincoln Pius X (1-6) and Waverly (2-7) won't have as much riding on the line as usual when the traditional rivals collide Friday night at Waverly.

But despite their records, each team has shown positive play. Both have been victimized by close games.

Lincoln East (5-3) plays at Beatrice (2-6) Friday night and Pius plays at Gothenburg (2-5) Saturday night.

Dave Maurer of Wittenberg, whose team won all 10 games and captured the NCAA Division III championship was named Coach of the Year in the College Division for the second time. He also received the honor in 1973.

Oklahoma head coach Barry Switzer got a $3,000 salary raise boosting his annual pay to $33,000. The NCAA has proposed three years' probation and dismissal of two assistant coaches as a penalty for alleged football recruiting violations at Michigan State, the Detroit News reported.

A-ravs have shown rookie quarterback Steve Grogan is in good health and should be in top shape for next season. Grogan injured his neck in college.

Two Providence, R.I., men were arrested at a Miami Beach hotel trying to sell counterfeit tickets to the Super Bowl, police reported.

San Jose State coach Darryl Rogers announced he would not take a head coaching job offered him this week by Southern Methodist University.

BASEBALL

National League owners, waiting until next Monday to resolve the planned move of the San Francisco Giants to Toronto, discussed expansion without taking any definite action in a continuation of their meetings in Phoenix.

American League President Lee MacPhail said there is no question in his mind that Seattle will be granted an expansion franchise for 1977 even if the A.L. has to act unilaterally.

American League officials, including former President Joe Cronin, repeatedly pledged that Seattle's baseball team would not be moved, attorney and civic leader James Ellis testified.

Charlie Fox, former major league manager with the San Francisco Giants, has joined the Montreal Expos as a special assignment scout.

OTHER SPORTS

Months of speculation will end Jan. 28 for the 10,000-odd athletes who expect to compete in the Summer Olympics when a final decision will be announced whether Montreal can be ready for the scheduled July 17 opening.

Chris Evert added yet another trophy to her collection with the Associated Press' 1975 Female Athlete of the Year. Rick Barry of the Golden State Warriors is the top vote-getter in the final balloting for the 1976 East-West All-Star game.

Lise Marie Morerod of Switzerland beat archrival Rosi Mittermaier of Germany by more than two seconds in winning the World Cup giant slalom race in Les Gets, France.

Two Pan-American Games gold medal winners will lead a 12-man United States freestyle wrestling contingent against international competition in the Soviet Union and Poland Jan. 30-Feb. 1, the AAU announced. The Americans will be led by returning champions Ben Peterson, Ames, Iowa, at 198 pounds, and heavyweight Mike McCready, Cedar Falls, Iowa.

The World Hockey Association's Ottawa Civics are going out of business and Indianapolis has purchased four of their players.

NU Wrestlers

Host Missouri

Nebraska's wrestling team, 1-2 for the year, will host the Missouri Tigers Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in the NU Coliseum.

Last year, Nebraska defeated Missouri 21-16 at Columbia.

Overall, the Nebraska-Missouri series is 6-6-1.

According to Husker coach Orval Borgall, the Tigers will be a formidable opponent.

"Before the year started, Missouri received honorable mention in the top 20 preseason ratings," he said.

Nebraska will be paced by senior, 142-pounder Tony Jennings and junior, 177-pounder Bill Hoffman.

Jennings is undefeated in dual competition with a 20-0 mark and overall he is 12-5. Hoffman is 2-0-1 in duals and 9-4-1 overall.

Leading Missouri will be senior, 167-pounder Paul Berry, senior 142-pounder Tim Vogel and junior, 190-pounder Jim Paulsen.

Last year, wrestling at 158 pounds, Berry placed second at the Big 8 and seventh in the NCAA.

Vogel and Paulsen, wrestling at 177, both placed fourth at the Big 8.

Bluejays Throttle Ok. City

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Center Tim McConnell a substitute starter led a Creighton sport that ignited the Bluejays to a 77-67 basketball victory over Oklahoma City Thursday night.

Creighton, 12-4, moved from a 17 1/2 with 7.37 to go before intermission and led 37-25 at the half.

McConnell, starting in place of center Daryl Heeke, who rested an injured foot, led a Creighton drive that brought a 45-28 margin with 17 1/2 to play.

McConnell had 18 points, John C. Johnson 16 and Cornell Smith 12 for Creighton.

George Beatty scored 19 and Jon Manning 18 to lead the Chiefs. 6-9 for the season.

Creighton shot 52 per cent from the field and Oklahoma City was good on 35 per cent.

Bluejays Throttle Ok. City

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Center Tim McConnell, a substitute starter, led a Creighton spurt that ignited the Bluejays to a 77-67 basketball victory over Oklahoma City Thursday night.

Creighton, 12-4, moved from a 17-17 tie with 7:37 to go before intermission and led 37-25 at the half.

McConnell, starting in place of center Daryl Heeke, who rested an injured foot, led a Creighton drive that brought a 45-28 margin with 17:11 to play.

Oklahoma City was able to close within 60-53 at 8:35 before Creighton's control game stopped the rally.

McConnell had 18 points, John C. Johnson 16 and Cornell Smith 12 for Creighton.

George Beatty scored 19 and John Manning 18 to lead the Chiefs, 6-9 for the season.

Creighton shot 52 per cent from the field and Oklahoma City was good on 35 per cent. Creighton outrebounded the Chiefs, 49-40.

A sharply divided Legislature Thursday handed 25-22 first stage approval to a bill which would move Nebraska's state primary elections from May to September.

The bill, LB120, sponsored by Sen. Gerald Koch of Halston, would retain Nebraska's May presidential primary election as a separate primary in presidential election years.

Ripped from the bill on a 28-7 vote was a proposal to allow registered independents to choose either the Republican or Democratic ballots in primary elections.

The revised bill faces a shaky future.

Opposition Great

Both political parties and state and county election officials had opposed the measure prior to its revision on the floor of the Legislature. Much of that opposition is expected to continue.

Prior to removal of the independent voter feature, Koch had amended his original bill to retain the presidential primary election and to prevent crossover voting in primaries by Democrats or Republicans.

Those changes, he said, were designed to reduce party opposition.

The revised proposal would become operative in 1980.

Koch said the measure would shorten campaigns, reduce campaign costs and heighten the interest of voters.

'Voters Turned Off'

"They're turned off by long drawn-out campaigns," he said.

Most of Thursday's debate revolved around the independent voter proposition.

"That would destroy the two-party system," Sen. Robert Clark of Sidney protested.

More, if not most, people would register as independents in order to be able to choose either party's ballot in every primary election, a number of senators suggested.

Sens. Ernest Chambers of Omaha, an independent, and Douglas Bereuter of Uteka, a Republican, supported the Koch proposal to broaden an independent's primary ballot choices.

'Pick A Fiasco'

"It would be very attractive to let them vote in either party's fiasco," Chamber said.

"It would make the parties more responsible," Bereuter said. "It would require the parties to strengthen their ballots . . . in order to attract independent voters."

Sen. Donald Dworak of Columbus warned that some independents might vote for the weakest candidate in one party's primary in order to eventually help the other party's nominee.

In the end, only seven senators resisted Sen. Frank Lewis' amendment eliminating that portion of the bill.

Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln opposed moving the primary date to September, suggesting that July and August would be the "worst possible time of the year" to attempt to conduct primary campaigns.

Costs To Be Barrier

In what is likely to now become the central point of future debate, Sen. James Dickinson of Millard pointed to the increased costs of holding two primary elections in presidential election years.

Sen. Gary Anderson of Axtell endorsed the change, arguing that it would make the election process "much more efficient."

The change would be better for both the electorate and the candidates, Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha agreed.

Koch said he has been somewhat disillusioned by the two-party process.

As a Douglas County Republican, he said, he found that "new ideas were never really welcomed," that it is "almost a closed group."

In a conversation with Sen. Roman Hruska at a party gathering in Norfolk, Koch said, he came away with the impression that Hruska was "more upset about this (bill) than the business of the nation's capital."

Votes Split Evenly

Senators registered as Democrats or Republicans split their votes almost evenly on the motion to send the bill over its first floor barrier. It needed 25 votes to advance, and squeezed out the required number only after a roll call vote.

Here is the vote to advance the bill:

For: Anderson, Barnett, Bereuter, Carsten, Chambers, Clark, Dworak, Fitzgerald, George, Goodrich, Kelly, Koch, F. Lewis, R. Lewis, Mahoney, Marvel, Mills, Resmussen, Savage, Schmitt, Skarda, Stoney, Swigart, Syas, Warner.

Against: Burbach, Burrows, Cavanaugh, Cope, DeCamp, Dickinson, Duis, Fowler, Hasebroock, Johnson, Kennedy, Keyes, Kremer, Luedtke, Maresh, Marsh, Moylan, Nichol, Rumery, Simpson, Stull, Witte.

Not Voting: Murphy.

Absent: Kime.

$1.5 Million Sought To Improve Lands

By JOHN BARRETTE
Associated Press Writer

A $1.5 million budget expansion request to improve school lands was justified Thursday as an investment that would boost school land revenues.

Although on paper the extra $1.5 million sought by the Board of Educational Lands and Funds would come from state tax coffers, the board's chairman told the Appropriations Committee it actually would come from school land revenues.

"For 100 years we did not put $1 back into that land," John Mitchell, the Omaha attorney who chairs the board, told senators.

He said if the state doesn't improve its school lands, which provide money for schools through a special trust fund, it doesn't deserve to continue as the landlord.

Improvement of the land through irrigation and conservation projects, he said, will increase the rental value and subsequent revenues.

Mitchell said Washington state uses up to 50% of its school land revenues for improvements each year, while the Nebraska board is seeking only the 20% improvement money authorized by a recent state law.

"We could spend $10 million on various conservation projects quickly," Mitchell said. The board had requested $2.4 million for projects, but Mitchell explained that was an error and the amount was being cut back to $1.5 million.

The legislative fiscal staff had recommended cutting the board's capital project request to zero, saying: "Need for this amount has not been firmly documented."

The school land request highlighted the first day of budget hearings in the 1976 legislature.

The committee also heard from Glen Soukup, executive director of the Commission on Aging, who read a "laundry list" of 15 mandates required of his commission to obtain federal funding.

Soukup said he needed at least $26,000 more than the staff recommendation in state money to insure the commission gets $2.9 million in federal grant and administration funds. He said an expected $40,000 in federal funds to complete the mandates wouldn't come due to a presidential veto.

"I really can't conceive of a deal like that," Hastings Sen. Richard Marvel, committee chairman, told Soukup. "The federal government is jacking us around all over the place."

Other agencies requesting partial or complete restoration of amounts cut from their general fund budgets by legislative fiscal staff recommendations included:

Health department, $175,000; Court of Industrial Relations, $20,000; Commission on Status of Women, $20,000; Investment Council, $2,460; and Banking Department, (cash fund only), $30,000.

Unicam Pay Hike Bill In Unicameral

By The Associated Press
Adams Sen. George Burrows' plan to pay state senators approximately the same as what families live on in Nebraska would produce about $12,000 a year for lawmakers.

Burrows, who discussed the proposal earlier, offered LB797 as a constitutional amendment that would allow state senators annual pay equal to the median family income as established by census figures.

Burrows' original concept was to pay lawmakers the average family income rather than the median amount. The average figure was estimated by Burrows at between $9,000 and $10,000 a year.

Burrows was under the impression that "median" and "average" would produce different figures and that was the reason for his lower estimate of under $10,000 when he discussed the concept last week.

In either case, the wage called for by the bill would float upward or downward with economic trends, according to Burrows.

Burrows said the $12,000 figure for median is based on current conditions, projecting a theoretical 1976 salary based on 1974 data.

However, the Burrows plan will take a while before it can become effective and has a couple of hurdles to reach that stage.

Because the state constitution must be amended to change senatorial pay, LB797 requires both passage by the Unicameral and the approval of the voters, who turned down the last pay hike proposal offered on the May 1974 primary election ballot.

That plan was to raise the $4,800 annual salary of state senators to $8,400 a year.

Cavanaugh Bill Deals With Access To Public Records

By DON BEMAN
United Press International

A public record is a public record, except . . .

And, that's where the sentence comes to an end because statutes do not define exactly what a public record is and thus what state and local records the public has free access to, according to Sen. John Cavanaugh of Omaha.

"There is now no workable definition of a public record," the senator said.

As a result, Cavanaugh Thursday introduced LB788. It would provide a means of determining what records are public and provide a means of challenging decisions to withhold some records.

In short, Cavanaugh said, under the bill "every record will be public unless specifically exempted."

The concern over access to government documents has been growing in recent years.

Cavanaugh said, and various cases have been made. Yet, he said, Nebraska law is silent on distinguishing public records from those that should be kept secret.

"There is a great deal of confusion on the part of the state and local subdivisions on what they will disclose to the public and what they won't," the lawmaker said. "It therefore boils down to what an administrator wants to give out and what he doesn't."

The proposal would not apply to criminal records.

The bill would create a Nebraska Information Practices board. It would have three members, one of them being the director of the State Department of Administrative Services and two others appointed by the governor.

The board would have the power to establish rules on determining which records are public and which are not. In addition, the board would handle complaints, through hearings, against public officials who refused to release some record or document.

The bill would establish general guidelines within which the board's power would be confined.

As a starter, personal records as well as trade secrets and financial information would be generally exempt from the public record designation.

Specifically, according to the bill, information "of a personal nature when the public disclosure thereof would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy" would be granted a disclosure exemption.

The board would file reports each Dec. 1 with the Unicameral and the governor on activities and actions as well as personal information systems which are in operation at various levels of government.

Lawmakers Consider Transfer Of Pershing College To SeTech

The Education Committee Thursday introduced a resolution in the Unicameral to authorize transfer of the Pershing College campus at Beatrice to Southeast Technical Community College.

The resolution, LB110, would authorize the University of Nebraska Foundation, which currently has the property of the defunct Pershing College, to transfer it to the University of Nebraska. The university in turn would transfer it to the SeTech school.

Expenses estimated in the resolution at $50,000 would be paid by the NU Board of Regents to the foundation, and the $50,000 would be repaid to the board by SeTech.

Pershing College, after going bankrupt, was turned over to the foundation for a $1 consideration for use by the state, but controversy surrounded acceptance of the virtual gift.

Parole Board Changes Generate No Opposition

A proposal to revamp the State Parole Board failed to generate any opposition Thursday at a public hearing held by the Legislature's Government Committee.

Discussion of Sen. Gerald Koch's LB630 did not touch on the existing Parole Board's performance which has been criticized as high-handed and unfair.

Koch, who led opposition to Catherine Dahlquist's appointment to the board last year on the grounds of qualifications, said he harbors "no ill motives against those serving" on the Parole Board.

His proposal would take the power to name Parole Board members away from the governor and give it to the Legislature. Senators would choose board members from a list of candidates suggested by a nominating commission.

The board would also have to have an ex-offender, a minority person and a woman serving on it. College degrees as well as administrative experience would be required.

Koch said last year the Legislature appropriated money for penal construction projects and termed it "penal reform."

Buildings, Koch said, are "not the crux" of what penal reform is all about. The Parole Board has a profound impact on people's lives and should be made as professional as possible.

Three other bills aired by the committee dealing with the Nebraska Bicentennial Commission, records management and the Commission on Alcoholism attracted limited testimony.

Reflector Tire Law On Review

State Sen. Thomas Kennedy of Newman Grove told the Unicameral's Public Works Committee Thursday that the real issue behind his bill to repeal a law passed last year requiring reflectorized tires on bicycles is whether it really takes a law to get something done in the name of safety.

"If you don't think the people are mad about the laws we pass . . ." said Kennedy, letting his sentence drop off without finishing as he spoke for advancement of his LB628.

But the message was made clear in the comments that followed.

"You will get more cooperation in pushing safety without a state law than you will with one," the senator said. He added he thought it would be nice for a change to get rid of a law, especially an unpopular one, instead of passing a new one that at best serves to confuse.

Kennedy said, in short, he thought community effort was the better law.

And, witness after witness, including bicycle manufacturers, spoke out in support of repealing the reflectorized tire law, passed last year with a Jan. 1, 1976, operative date, and of Kennedy's idea of how to attain safety goals.

Only two persons spoke against repeal. One was a representative of Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing, the only company which makes the reflector material that is put on the bike tires. The other was a state safety official.

Ban On Nuclear Plants Is Intent Of Fowler's Bill

State Sen. Steven Fowler of Lincoln Thursday introduced a bill in the Unicameral that would impose a moratorium on construction of nuclear power plants.

"The need for this legislation is clear in view of the events that have transpired over the last year in the nuclear power industry," Fowler said in introducing LB791.

State Primary Elections Bill Squeaks By 1st Vote

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

A sharply divided Legislature Thursday handed 25-22 first stage approval to a bill which would move Nebraska's state primary elections from May to September.

The bill, LB120, sponsored by Sen. Gerald Koch of Ralston, would retain Nebraska's May presidential primary election as a separate primary in presidential election years.

Ripped from the bill on a 28-7 vote was a proposal to allow registered independents to choose either the Republican or Democratic ballots in primary elections.

The revised bill faces a shaky future.

Opposition Great

Both political parties and state and county election officials had opposed the measure prior to its revision on the floor of the Legislature. Much of that opposition is expected to continue.

Prior to removal of the independent voter feature, Koch had amended his original bill to retain the presidential primary election and to prevent crossover voting in primaries by Democrats or Republicans.

Those changes, he said, were designed to reduce party opposition.

The revised proposal would become operative in 1980.

Koch said the measure would shorten campaigns, reduce campaign costs and heighten the interest of voters.

'Voters Turned Off'

"They're turned off by long drawn-out campaigns," he said.

Most of Thursday's debate revolved around the independent voter proposition.

"That would destroy the two-party system," Sen. Robert Clark of Sidney protested.

More, if not most, people would register as independents in order to be able to choose either party's ballot in every primary election, a number of senators suggested.

Sens. Ernest Chambers of Omaha, an independent, and Douglas Bereuter of Utica, a Republican, supported the Koch proposal to broaden an independent's primary ballot choices.

'Pick A Fiasco'

"It would be very attractive to let them vote in either party's fiasco," Chamber said.

"It would make the parties more responsible," Bereuter said. "It would require the parties to strengthen their ballots . . . in order to attract independent voters."

Sen. Donald Dworak of Columbus warned that some independents might vote for the weakest candidate in one party's primary in order to eventually help the other party's nominee.

In the end, only seven senators resisted Sen. Frank Lewis' amendment eliminating that portion of the bill.

Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln opposed moving the primary date to September, suggesting that July and August would be the "worst possible time of the year" to attempt to conduct primary campaigns.

Costs To Be Barrier

In what is likely to now become the central point of future debate, Sen. James Dickinson of Millard pointed to the increased costs of holding two primary elections in presidential election years.

Sen. Gary Anderson of Axtell endorsed the change, arguing that it would make the election process "much more efficient."

The change would be better for both the electorate and the candidates, Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha agreed.

Koch said he has been somewhat disillusioned by the two-party process.

As a Douglas County Republican, he said, he found that "new ideas were never really welcomed," that it is "almost a closed group."

In a conversation with Sen. Roman Hruska at a party gathering in Norfolk, Koch said, he came away with the impression that Hruska was "more upset about this (bill) than the business of the nation's capital."

Votes Split Evenly

Senators registered as Democrats or Republicans split their votes almost evenly on the motion to send the bill over its first floor barrier. It needed 25 votes to advance, and squeezed out the required number only after a roll call vote.

Here is the vote to advance the bill:

For: Anderson, Barnett, Bereuter, Carsten, Chambers, Clark, Dworak, Fitzgerald, George, Goodrich, Kelly, Koch, F. Lewis, R. Lewis, Mahoney, Marvel, Mills, Rasmussen, Savage, Schmitt, Skarda, Stoney, Swigart, Syas, Warner.

Against: Burbach, Burrows, Cavanaugh, Cope, DeCamp, Dickinson, Duis, Fowler, Hasebroock, Johnson, Kennedy, Keyes, Kremer, Luedtke, Maresch, Marsh, Moylan, Nichol, Rumery, Simpson, Stull, Wiltse.

Not Voting: Murphy.

Absent: Kime.

$1.5 Million Sought To Improve Lands

By JOHN BARRETTE
Associated Press Writer

A $1.5 million budget expansion request to improve school lands was justified Thursday as an investment that would boost school land revenues.

Although on paper the extra $1.5 million sought by the Board of Educational Lands and Funds would come from state tax coffers, the board's chairman told the Appropriations Committee it actually would come from school land revenues.

"For 100 years we did not put $1 back into that land," John Mitchell, the Omaha attorney who chairs the board, told senators.

He said if the state doesn't improve its school lands, which provide money for schools through a special trust fund, it doesn't deserve to continue as the landlord.

Improvement of the land through irrigation and conservation projects, he said, will increase the rental value and subsequent revenues.

Mitchell said Washington state uses up to 50% of its school land revenues for improvements each year, while the Nebraska board is seeking only the 20% improvement money authorized by a recent state law.

"We could spend $10 million on various conservation projects quickly," Mitchell said. The board had requested $2.4 million for projects, but Mitchell explained that was an error and

The legislative fiscal staff had recommended cutting the board's capital project request to zero, saying: "Need for this amount has not been firmly documented."

The school land request highlighted the first day of budget hearings in the 1976 legislature.

The committee also heard from Glen Soukup, executive director of the Commission on Aging, who read a "laundry list" of 15 mandates required of his commission to obtain federal funding.

Soukup said he needed at least $26,000 more than the staff recommendation in state money to insure the commission gets $2.9 million in federal grant and administration funds. He said an expected $40,000 in federal funds to complete the mandates wouldn't come due to a presidential veto.

"I really can't conceive of a deal like that," Hastings Sen. Richard Marvel, committee chairman, told Soukup. "The federal government is jacking us around all over the place."

Other agencies requesting partial or complete restoration of amounts cut from their general fund budgets by legislative fiscal staff recommendations included:

Health department, $175,000; Court of Industrial Relations, $20,000; Commission on Status of Women, $20,000; Investment Council, $2,460; and Banking Department, (cash fund only), $30,000.

Unicam Pay Hike Bill In Unicameral

By The Associated Press

Adams Sen. George Burrows' plan to pay state senators approximately the same as what families live on in Nebraska would produce about $12,000 a year for lawmakers.

Burrows, who discussed the proposal earlier, offered LB797 as a constitutional amendment that would allow state senators annual pay equal to the median family income as established by census figures.

Burrows' original concept was to pay lawmakers the average family income rather than the median amount. The average figure was estimated by Burrows at between $9,000 and $10,000 a year.

Burrows was under the impression that "median" and "average" would produce different figures and that was the reason for his lower estimate of under $10,000 when he discussed the concept last week.

In either case, the wage called for by the bill would float upward or downward with economic trends, according to Burrows.

Burrows said the $12,000 figure for median is based on current conditions, projecting a theoretical 1976 salary based on 1974 data.

However, the Burrows plan will take a while before it can become effective and has a couple of hurdles to reach that stage.

Because the state constitution must be amended to change senatorial pay, LB797 requires both passage by the Unicameral and the approval of the voters, who turned down the last pay hike proposal offered on the May 1974 primary election ballot.

That plan was to raise the $4,800 annual salary of state senators to $8,400 a year.

Cavanaugh Bill Deals With Access To Public Records

By DON BEMAN
United Press International

A public record is a public record, except . . .

And, that's where the sentence comes to an end because statutes do not define exactly what a public record is and thus what state and local records the public has free access to, according to Sen. John Cavanaugh of Omaha.

"There is now no workable definition of a public record," the senator said.

As a result, Cavanaugh Thursday introduced LB788. It would provide a means of determining what records are public and provide a means of challenging decisions to withhold some records.

In short, Cavanaugh said, under the bill "every record will be public unless specifically exempted."

The concern over access to government documents has been growing in recent years,

Cavanaugh said, and various cases have been made. Yet, he said, Nebraska law is silent on distinguishing public records from those that should be kept secret.

"There is a great deal of confusion on the part of the state and local subdivisions on what they will disclose to the public and what they won't," the lawmaker said. "It therefore boils down to what an administrator wants to give out and what he doesn't."

The proposal would not apply to criminal records.

The bill would create a Nebraska Information Practices board. It would have three members, one of them being the director of the State Department of Administrative Services and two others appointed by the governor.

The board would have the power to establish rules on determining which records are public and which are not. In addition, the board would handle complaints, through hearings, against public officials who refused to release some record or document.

The bill would establish general guidelines within which the board's power would be confined.

As a starter, personal records as well as trade secrets and financial information would be generally exempt from the public record designation.

Specifically, according to the bill, information "of a personal nature when the public disclosure thereof would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy" would be granted a disclosure exemption.

The board would file reports each Dec. 1 with the Unicameral and the governor on activities and actions as well as personal information systems which are in operation at various levels of government.

Parole Board Changes Generate No Opposition

A proposal to revamp the State Parole Board failed to generate any opposition Thursday at a public hearing held by the Legislature's Government Committee.

Discussion of Sen. Gerald Koch's LB630 did not touch on the existing Parole Board's performance which has been criticized as high-handed and unfair.

Koch, who led opposition to Catherine Dahlquist's appointment to the board last year on the grounds of qualifications, said he harbors "no ill motives against those serving" on the Parole Board.

His proposal would take the power to name Parole Board members away from the governor and give it to the Legislature. Senators would choose board members from a list of candidates suggested by a nominating commission.

The board would also have to have an ex-offender, a minority person and a woman serving on it. College degrees as well as administrative experience would be required.

Koch said last year the Legislature appropriated money for penal construction projects and termed it "penal reform."

Buildings, Koch said, are "not the crux" of what penal reform is all about. The Parole Board has a profound impact on people's lives and should be made as professional as possible.

Three other bills aired by the committee dealing with the Nebraska Bicentennial Commission, records management and the Commission on Alcoholism attracted limited testimony.

Ban On Nuclear Plants Is Intent Of Fowler's Bill

State Sen. Steven Fowler of Lincoln Thursday introduced a bill in the Unicameral that would impose a moratorium on construction of nuclear power plants.

"The need for this legislation is clear in view of the events that have transpired over the last year in the nuclear power industry," Fowler said in introducing LB791.

The moratorium would remain in effect, the bill states, until "such time as the evidence demonstrates with overwhelming certainty that nuclear power is a safe and efficient power source."

Fowler said in addition to safety, an economic factor is involved. He noted the Omaha

Reflector Tire Law On Review

State Sen. Thomas Kennedy of Newman Grove told the Unicameral's Public Works Committee Thursday that the real issue behind his bill to repeal a law passed last year requiring reflectorized tires on bicycles is whether it really takes a law to get something done in the name of safety.

"If you don't think the people are mad about the laws we pass . . ." said Kennedy, letting his sentence drop off without finishing as he spoke for advancement of his LB628.

But the message was made clear in the comments that followed.

"You will get more cooperation in pushing safety without a state law than you will with one," the senator said. He added he thought it would be nice for a change to get rid of a law, especially an unpopular one, instead of passing a new one that at best serves to confuse.

Kennedy said, in short, he thought community effort was the better law.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Friday, January 16, 1976

Release of Henry Wallace diaries by the University of Iowa verify the fact that Franklin Roosevelt was indeed very much concerned with astrology. The four-term President studied the subject and, according to his Vice President, Wallace, was "fascinated by astrology."

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Make inquiries but don't demand immediate action. Delay now gives you breathing room and chance to check various legal aspects, possibilities. Gemini, Libra in picture. Hold off on investment commitment.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Light touch is most likely to succeed. Accent diplomacy. Test experiment, be flexible and willing to listen to various points of view. Another Taurus could be in picture along with Scorpio and Libra. Relative in transit might ask a favor.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Study Aries message for valid hint. Guard valuables. Don't take too much for granted where money is concerned. See people places in realistic light. Otherwise self-deception could be costly. Know it and shore up emotional defenses.

CANCER (June 21-July 21) You have opportunity to display policy, special capabilities. Older individual shares experience. Be receptive. You may have to turn some sharp corners. Keep alert - and don't insist on having everything your own way.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22) Finish rather than start project. There are unknown factors - realize it and put finishing touches on current assignment. One who advocates rushing into something new is ignorant of his ulterior motive. Aries, Libra can be allies.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Study Leo message. Avoid rushing to judgment. New approach is necessary. You have to turn some sharp corners and aches. Get to heart of matters. Member of opposite sex offers tender loving care.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Plans could be "reversed," but apparent reversal might actually work to your advantage.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Highlight willingness to meet people, to share views and to travel if necessary. Open lines of communication. Refuse to be intimidated by one who brags about education and other accomplishments. Adhere to your own principles.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Be specific, direct, frank in approach to problems. Be aware of financial obligations - don't assume that others automatically will do their share. Ask for verification, proper papers and written assurances.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Play waiting game. Refuse to be rushed, cajoled, chided, into premature move. Need legal counsel but do some personal checking. Make calls, inquiries. Gemini, Virgo and Sagittarius persons could be in picture.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Communications could be confused, garbled. Know it and be sure you are correctly quoted. Be aware of instructions, directions. Gain cooperation from home front. Means, take family into confidence. Remember special occasion with gift.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Pull strings tight on any tendency toward extravagance. Base actions on logical conclusions, not romantic impulses. Message should become increasingly clear. Another Piscean could be in picture.

IF JAN. 16 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are creative, introspective, a perfectionist. Few persons actually understand the real you. Pisces, Virgo individuals play important roles in your life. April will be your most significant month of 1976. You are on more solid ground now - and you may have to review basics. Domestic adjustment is upcoming in February.
